GOP Pledges 8-Point Plan

Would 'Humanize' Income Tax Relief Without Increase; Other Issues Cited

Albany, Jan. 4 (AP)—The Legislature's GOP leaders served notice on Gov. Harriman today: "We shall enact" an eight-point party program topped by "humanizing" income tax relief and a pledge of no income tax increases.

The Republican strategists stole a march on the new Democratic governor by unwrapping their plans a day before he is to spell out his own in his first annual message to the Legislature.

In a statement, Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck and Senate Leader Walter J. Mahoney threw down a challenge to Harriman: They invited him to "cooperate" with their heavy majorities in both Houses by putting their program into effect.

Heck and Mahoney—who have the votes to keep their pledges—proposed, by subjects:

TAXES—Continuing personal income rates at 90 per cent of the full legal rate and unincorporated business levies at 75 per cent; boosting deductions for the ill, the aged and the blind; letting bread-winning mothers deduct the cost of child care.

ROADS—Stamping final legislative approval on a 750-million-dollar bond issue and submitting it to the voters. The GOP leaders did not mention proposals to up gasoline taxes two cents a gallon and diesel fuel taxes three cents a gallon—which go hand in hand with the bond issue.

JOBS—Raising unemployment insurance benefits from $30 to $36 a week maximum; letting banks pool some of their resources to help finance new industry, in the style of a development credit corporation.

FARMS—Spurting efforts to boost milk drinking; studying milk distribution and pricing problems; conferring with federal agencies on the milk price support sag below grain parity levels.

EDUCATION—Pegging state aid at present levels for another year; continuing a state study commission now developing a new aid formula; awaiting its report on teachers' pay; discouraging any state borrowing for school construction.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY—Authorizing a statewide conference on children and youth; considering whether to expand state training school facilities.

THE AGED and handicapped—Stepping up rehabilitation programs; reviewing the adequacy of care for the aged; and enlarging the program for mentally retarded children.

NEW YORK CITY—Approving city financial proposals "which we consider fiscally sound, fair and in the best interests of the city so far as they are not in conflict with those of the whole state."

Heck and Mahoney said their program was aimed at continuing "the outstanding record" made during ex-Gov. Thomas E.

Harriman Is for $1.25 Base Wage

Uses Competition As His Yardstick

Albany, Jan. 4 (AP)—Gov. Harriman has ordered a study to determine what can be done to combat seasonal layoffs by employers in New York state.

However, in disclosing his order yesterday, the new Democratic governor said that the state's economic condition depended largely on national policies and that President Eisenhower's administration should aim higher than 1953 economic levels to avoid "built-in unemployment."

AT HIS FIRST news conference since his inauguration, Harriman urged that the national minimum wage be raised from 75 cents to $1.25. He said an increase to 90 cents, under consideration by the Eisenhower Administration, would be "too late and too little."

HARRIMAN SAID the interests of New York and "other high labor standard states" required a "substantial increase" to check what he called unfair competition from other states.

The governor, saying he had heard that the Eisenhower Administration was setting 1953 economic levels as goals for 1955, told reporters he would seek to have the aims set higher.

HARRIMAN EXPLAINED that "built-in unemployment" would result if the national economy did not grow in line with increases in the nation's productive capacity caused by additions to the labor force and technological developments.

The governor said New York's prosperity was "very largely dependent on national policies." Harriman said he was pleased that Eisenhower might seek an increase in the minimum wage, but added, "he should have recommended it last year."

ON OTHER TOPICS, Harriman told reporters:

1. He would be glad to meet the Republican majority leaders of the Legislature "as soon as they get here" for the opening of the Legislative session tomorrow, and that they would be in-

State of Siege Is Proclaimed

Panama, Jan. 4 (AP)—Authorities pressed a nationwide search today for a band of unidentified professional killers accused of assassinating President Jose Antonio Remon at the instigation of his political enemies.

The "guns-for-hire" charge was made by Minister of Government Catalino Arrocha Graell in a funeral oration late yesterday over the body of the slain chief executive, who was mowed down by machinegun fire at a race track Sunday night.

"Mercenary hands armed by political enemies" fired the bullets, Arrocha declared. There was widespread speculation that the killers may have been imported.

Ladejinsky Story Is Not Confirmed

Hagerty Refuses Comment on Post In Asian Economic Aid Program

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—The White House today refused to confirm or deny a published report that the administration may offer Wolf Ladejinsky a major post in the Asian economic aid program.

The New York Times said this was under discussion as a move to ease the controversy over Ladejinsky's dismissal as U. S. agricultural attache at Tokyo.

"I think I will have no comment either confirming or denying any questions on that matter," Presidential Secretary James G. Hagerty told newsmen who asked him about the report.

Hagerty did acknowledge, however, that the controversy over Ladejinsky has reached the White House level. He said in response to questions that Secretary of Agriculture Benson has discussed the case with Sherman Adams, chief aide to President Eisenhower.

HAGERTY SAID he did not know whether Benson has talked to the President about the matter. He replied "no" when asked whether Adams discussed the situation with Eisenhower after talking with Benson.

Ladejinsky, a native of Russia and a naturalized American, became agricultural attache in Tokyo as a state department employe. When agricultural attaches were transferred to jurisdiction of the agriculture department, the latter department decided to drop him on grounds he

Knowland Sees Nothing Startling

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Sen. George (D.-Ga.) predicted today Democrats will have no "basic disagreements" with President Eisenhower over foreign, national defense and world trade policies in the Congress session opening tomorrow.

George, in line to become chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, spoke out after Republican legislative leaders predicted the President's State of the Union message will be "well received" by the country.

Saying he doesn't believe it contains anything new or startling, Sen. Knowland of California, the top floor leader, said he thinks the message "will be well received by the Congress and the people."

EISENHOWER GAVE the top leaders a preview of the message at the White House yesterday.

The President was said to be stressing in the message a new defense concept in which proposed military manpower reductions would be offset by the employment of new weapons and closer links with America's allies.

The manpower cuts, already announced, have brought Democratic demands for a review of over-all military policy.

Eisenhower was represented as taking an optimistic view of the nation's long range economic prospects and was said to be emphasizing in the message plans to advance the health and economic welfare of the country.

SOME LAWMAKERS said the message was being redrafted into final form before the President's scheduled delivery at a joint session of Congress Thursday.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the message will run about 6,400 words—about 1,600 fewer than last year's—and will take about 45 minutes for the President to deliver. Radio and television networks will carry the speech.

Costly Fire Occurs In Po'keepsie

Main Street Stores Are Burned Out

A three-alarm fire swept through two stores and caused smoke and water damage to several adjoining buildings on the north side of Main street in Poughkeepsie on Monday afternoon.

The first loss estimate of $150,000 is expected to be revised considerably upward as fire department officials continued to inspect damaged business places today.

Total loss was reported to Heiman's Men's Clothes, 319 Main street, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Heiman, and to the Kohn Brothers Retail Stores, Inc., a shoe store, at 321 Main street.

Water and smoke damage was reported to the E. V. Grant paint and wallpaper store at 317 Main street and Lillian's Tot & Teen Shop, 325 Main street. Possible damage at other nearby buildings had not been appraised.

Cause of the fire had not been determined.

THE FIRST ALARM was sounded at 4:24 p. m. Monday. Second and third alarms, sounded in quick succession, brought out all of Poughkeepsie's fire apparatus.

Volunteer fire companies from surrounding towns, including Highland in Ulster county, were summoned by mutual aid to stand by in the city's firehouses as protection against any other possible outbreak of fire. The Highland department, under Chief William Maynard, stood by at a City Hall place station from shortly after the third alarm was sounded until about 9:30 p. m.

POUGHKEEPSIE firemen fought the blaze for about two and a half hours before bringing it under control. Some men and apparatus were kept on the scene until early today to guard against rekindling of the fire.

No serious personal injury or loss of life was reported.

Store officials estimated $125,000 damage to the stock alone of the men's clothing store and $50,000 to the stock of the shoe store, the Associated Press reported. There was no estimate on damage to the buildings.

Rayburn Chosen As Leader

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Sam Rayburn of Texas was unanimously chosen by Democrats today to be speaker of the House in the 84th Congress convening at noon tomorrow.

His selection at a party caucus assured his election when Democrats take over control of Congress tomorrow.

Rayburn, who will be 73 years old Thursday, already has served as speaker longer than any other man in history. He first was elected to that office in September, 1940, and has held it ever since except when Republicans controlled the 80th and 83rd Congresses.

Supervisor Chairman Is Selected

Welfare Rolls Open to Public

Charles Relyea of the town of Hurley was elected chairman of the board of supervisors Monday evening, succeeding Robert F. Phinney of the 11th ward who was not a candidate for re-election.

Relyea, who was elected to the board in 1950, was nominated by Supervisor Jesse McHugh and the nomination was seconded by Supervisor James Martin of the 12th ward.

The name of Walter Albrecht of the seventh ward was placed before the board by Supervisor James J. Carroll of the tenth ward as the minority party's candidate. Later Carroll moved to make the election of Relyea unanimous.

ON THE VOTE Relyea received 21 votes and Albrecht 9.

Supervisors Borcherding and Cole were named by Temporary Chairman Frank Elliott of New Paltz to escort Chairman Relyea to the rostrum where Relyea thanked the members for the honor.

The meeting had been called to order by Clerk Robert A. Snyder and Frank Elliott of New Paltz was elected temporary chairman, being nominated by Supervisor McHugh.

John Sprague of Ellenville, who succeeds Lawrence D. Craft, resigned, as supervisor of the town of Wawarsing and Morton Bertrand of Pine Hill who succeeds George Fichtner as supervisor from Shandaken, were introduced. Sprague succeeds Craft who became county clerk on January first and Bertrand succeeds Fichtner who will go with the County Highway Department as a foreman.

Secretary Is In Red China

Tokyo, Jan. 4 (AP)—UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold arrived in Canton by special plane on his mission to Red China to attempt to arrange the release of 11 American airmen and other UN personnel.

This was announced by Peiping Radio today in a brief report, which added:

"He is accompanied by six assistants. The party was met at the airfield by Tsao Jo-Ming, head of the foreign affairs office of the Kwangtung Provincial Peoples Government."

The broadcast, heard in Tokyo said Hammarskjold's plane arrived from New Delhi at 8:30 a. m. He was to transfer to another plane for the flight to Peiping, Red China's capital.

There he expects to confer with Chou En-Lai concerning the conviction and imprisonment of the airmen and other personnel on charges of "spying." The airmen were shot down in the Korean War.

En route, Hammarskjold received a cool reception in India. Authoritative sources in New Delhi said Prime Minister Nehru had declined the envoy's invitation to send a senior Indian representative on the Peiping mission.

Kerhonkson Man Is Hurt Critically

Arthur H. Markle, 42, of Kerhonkson was critically injured about 6:10 p. m. Monday in a one-car accident on Route 209 about two and a half miles north of Kerhonkson, according to a state police report.

Troopers said Markle, only occupant of a 1940 sedan, was thrown to the pavement after he apparently lost control of the vehicle, which left the east side of the highway, went down into a ditch, struck an utility pole and turned end over end. He apparently had been traveling in a southerly direction, troopers said.

Markle suffered multiple lacerations of the face, head and chest, a possible skull fracture and other injuries, state police said. He was taken by ambulance to Veterans Memorial Hospital in Ellenville, where his condition was listed as "critical."

Harriman-Rauh Break Reported

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—The Washington Post and Times Herald says Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Joseph L. Rauh Jr., who was prominent in Harriman's effort to obtain the Democratic presidential nomination in 1952, "have parted political company in spectacular fashion."

The story says Harriman ordered Rauh out of his New York office in December and in the preceding exchange took a verbal crack at Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 nominee and the man Harriman publicly says he is backing for 1956.

Rauh, a Washington lawyer and leader in Americans for Democratic Action, ran Harriman's successful campaign in the 1952 District of Columbia presidential preference primary. He declined comment on the newspaper story, which gave this account of the reported Harriman-Rauh incident.

AFTER THE NOVEMBER election Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-Lib-N. Y.) asked the governor-elect to speak at the annual ADA banquet in New York in observance of the birthday of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Lehman and Harriman were co-chairmen for the January 1954 affair.

Harriman did not give Lehman a definite answer. Later he turned down a repeat invitation extended through Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., another ADA leader.

Rauh then called at Harriman's office to discuss the bid further but Harriman said he did not want to hear any more about it.

Rauh asked for two minutes to explain, saying he did not believe Harriman fully understood the situation. Harriman gruffly told him to "go ahead."

THE GIST of what Rauh had to say was that ADA only wanted in effect to honor Harriman, long an ADA contributor, and that Harriman's refusal to speak "might be misinterpreted."

At this Harriman shouted in anger that "I'm not running out on ADA the way your friend Adlai Stevenson did." There was no elaboration.

Taken aback by the remark which came without previous mention of the 1952 presidential nominee, Rauh still persisted in

McClellan May Probe Story Woman's Life Threatened

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said today the Senate Investigations subcommittee may inquire further into a woman witness' story that a Communist threatened her life.

Dark-haired Mary Stella Beynon, 31, who said she is a former FBI undercover informant, told part of the story yesterday as a witness at the subcommittee's last scheduled public hearing before Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) hands its chairmanship over to McClellan in the new Congress.

McClellan says he plans some investigations of Communists, and he told newsmen that one phase "well could be" some follow-through hearings based on Miss Beynon's story of having lived in the shadow of a Communist "death sentence" since 1947. He said he will discuss it with other subcommittee members.

Miss Beynon told the subcommittee that Roy Hudson, whom she described as a former chairman of the Communist party in western Pennsylvania, informed her on May 13, 1947, that "I would not be killed that night, but I was under a death sentence." She said Communists had just learned she was reporting to the FBI.

She mentioned the "death sentence" just as she was winding

Robber Suspect Shot and Killed

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—A robber suspect was shot and killed in an apparent holdup attempt today in a branch of the New York Trust Co. in the heart of Manhattan's garment district. A bank guard was wounded.

The shooting attracted thousands of passersby to the bank, at 7th avenue and 39th street.

The suspect, brought down by gunfire from a former city policeman, was tentatively identified by police as Ellison Gaylord Grey, 29, of Kansas City.

POLICE SAID the suspect fired a shot wounding Edward A. Kaszuba, 38, of 1491 Beach avenue, the Bronx, a bank guard, and was shot to death a moment later by William Rettig, 61, of 20-41 27th street, Astoria, Queens, a former crack shot in the police department.

Kaszuba was taken to a hospital with a bullet wound in his right leg above the ankle.

Rettig, employed by the Franklin Savings Bank, 8th avenue and 42nd street, entered the bank about 10:10 a. m. to make

Sisters of Slain Man Greet Widow Held as Murderer

Mrs. Dorothy Bernice Yankouski, 29, is accused of the fatal shooting of her 28-year-old husband, after a quarrel last Thursday at their Hyde Park, N. Y., home.

Mrs. Yankouski, mother of three small children, called Dutchess County Sheriff Fred Close after the shooting and told him she had just killed her husband.

Her attorney, Richard Russell, asked yesterday's hearing to seek dismissal of the murder charge on grounds of self defense.

Assistant District Attorney Russel Aldrich testified Mrs. Yankouski told him that before the shooting her husband had told her: "I am going to be your executioner."

Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Quinlan testified that James Creighton, of nearby Staatsburg, had visited the Yankouski

Goldwater May Head Committee

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—White House assent was reported today for a move to name Sen. Goldwater of Arizona as chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee.

If he is chosen by the conference of Republican Senators, Goldwater would step into the place now filled by Sen. Dirksen of Illinois, who could not continue to hold the job under present rules because he is expected to become a candidate for re-election in 1956.

Both Goldwater and Dirksen voted "no" when the Senate on Dec. 2 condemned Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), 67-22, for some of his actions, but when McCarthy criticized President Eisenhower on Dec. 7, Goldwater was among the first to defend the President.

At that time, McCarthy said Eisenhower had congraulated those who had hampered the exposure of Communists. And he accused the President of displaying a "shrinking show of weakness" in dealing with Communist China's imprisonment of 11 American airmen as "spies."

Goldwater announced he was solidly behind Eisenhower and disagreed with what he said was McCarthy's contention that "the Eisenhower administration has not fought communism at home and abroad."

While the choice of a campaign committee chairman lies with the Senate Republicans, some of the leaders were reported to have consulted Eisenhower's closest aides about the situation. They reportedly were told there would be no White House objection to having Goldwater take charge of a campaign in which 17 GOP seats and control of the Senate will be at stake.

The campaign committee chairman is often included in the councils of the GOP Senate leadership, expected to include a solid front of senators who voted against censure of McCarthy.

The Republicans scheduled a conference of all their members today (10 a. m.) at which Sen. Knowland of California was ex-

Main Street Stores Are Burned Out

A three-alarm fire swept through two stores and caused smoke and water damage to several adjoining buildings on the north side of Main street in Poughkeepsie on Monday afternoon.

The first loss estimate of $150,000 is expected to be revised considerably upward as fire department officials continued to inspect damaged business places today.

Total loss was reported to Heiman's Men's Clothes, 319 Main street, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Heiman, and to the Kohn Brothers Retail Stores, Inc., a shoe store, at 321 Main street.

Water and smoke damage was reported to the E. V. Grant paint and wallpaper store at 317 Main street and Lillian's Tot & Teen Shop, 325 Main street. Possible damage at other nearby buildings had not been appraised.

Cause of the fire had not been determined.

THE FIRST ALARM was sounded at 4:24 p. m. Monday. Second and third alarms, sounded in quick succession, brought out all of Poughkeepsie's fire apparatus.

Volunteer fire companies from surrounding towns, including Highland in Ulster county, were summoned by mutual aid to stand by in the city's firehouses as protection against any other possible outbreak of fire. The Highland department, under Chief William Maynard, stood by at a City Hall place station from shortly after the third alarm was sounded until about 9:30 p. m.

POUGHKEEPSIE firemen fought the blaze for about two and a half hours before bringing it under control. Some men and apparatus were kept on the scene until early today to guard against rekindling of the fire.

No serious personal injury or loss of life was reported.

Store officials estimated $125,000 damage to the stock alone of the men's clothing store and $50,000 to the stock of the shoe store, the Associated Press reported. There was no estimate on damage to the buildings.

Rayburn Chosen As Leader

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Sam Rayburn of Texas was unanimously chosen by Democrats today to be speaker of the House in the 84th Congress convening at noon tomorrow.

His selection at a party caucus assured his election when Democrats take over control of Congress tomorrow.

Rayburn, who will be 73 years old Thursday, already has served as speaker longer than any other man in history. He first was elected to that office in September, 1940, and has held it ever since except when Republicans controlled the 80th and 83rd Congresses.

Supervisor Chairman Is Selected

Welfare Rolls Open to Public

Charles Relyea of the town of Hurley was elected chairman of the board of supervisors Monday evening, succeeding Robert F. Phinney of the 11th ward who was not a candidate for re-election.

The name of Walter Albrecht of the seventh ward was placed before the board by Supervisor James J. Carroll of the tenth ward as the minority party's candidate. Later Carroll moved to make the election of Relyea unanimous.

ON THE VOTE Relyea received 21 votes and Albrecht 9.

Supervisors Borcherding and Cole were named by Temporary Chairman Frank Elliott of New Paltz to escort Chairman Relyea to the rostrum where Relyea thanked the members for the honor.

The meeting had been called to order by Clerk Robert A. Snyder and Frank Elliott of New Paltz was elected temporary chairman, being nominated by Supervisor McHugh.

Secretary Is In Red China

Tokyo, Jan. 4 (AP)—UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold arrived in Canton by special plane on his mission to Red China to attempt to arrange the release of 11 American airmen and other UN personnel.

This was announced by Peiping Radio today in a brief report, which added:

"He is accompanied by six assistants. The party was met at the airfield by Tsao Jo-Ming, head of the foreign affairs office of the Kwangtung Provincial Peoples Government."

The broadcast, heard in Tokyo said Hammarskjold's plane arrived from New Delhi at 8:30 a. m. He was to transfer to another plane for the flight to Peiping, Red China's capital.

There he expects to confer with Chou En-Lai concerning the conviction and imprisonment of the airmen and other personnel on charges of "spying." The airmen were shot down in the Korean War.

En route, Hammarskjold received a cool reception in India. Authoritative sources in New Delhi said Prime Minister Nehru had declined the envoy's invitation to send a senior Indian representative on the Peiping mission.

Kerhonkson Man Is Hurt Critically

Arthur H. Markle, 42, of Kerhonkson was critically injured about 6:10 p. m. Monday in a one-car accident on Route 209 about two and a half miles north of Kerhonkson, according to a state police report.

Troopers said Markle, only occupant of a 1940 sedan, was thrown to the pavement after he apparently lost control of the vehicle, which left the east side of the highway, went down into a ditch, struck an utility pole and turned end over end. He apparently had been traveling in a southerly direction, troopers said.

Markle suffered multiple lacerations of the face, head and chest, a possible skull fracture and other injuries, state police said. He was taken by ambulance to Veterans Memorial Hospital in Ellenville, where his condition was listed as "critical."

Harriman-Rauh Break Reported

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—The Washington Post and Times Herald says Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Joseph L. Rauh Jr., who was prominent in Harriman's effort to obtain the Democratic presidential nomination in 1952, "have parted political company in spectacular fashion."

The story says Harriman ordered Rauh out of his New York office in December and in the preceding exchange took a verbal crack at Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 nominee and the man Harriman publicly says he is backing for 1956.

Rauh, a Washington lawyer and leader in Americans for Democratic Action, ran Harriman's successful campaign in the 1952 District of Columbia presidential preference primary. He declined comment on the newspaper story, which gave this account of the reported Harriman-Rauh incident.

AFTER THE NOVEMBER election Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-Lib-N. Y.) asked the governor-elect to speak at the annual ADA banquet in New York in observance of the birthday of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Lehman and Harriman were co-chairmen for the January 1954 affair.

Harriman did not give Lehman a definite answer. Later he turned down a repeat invitation extended through Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., another ADA leader.

Rauh then called at Harriman's office to discuss the bid further but Harriman said he did not want to hear any more about it.

Rauh asked for two minutes to explain, saying he did not believe Harriman fully understood the situation. Harriman gruffly told him to "go ahead."

THE GIST of what Rauh had to say was that ADA only wanted in effect to honor Harriman, long an ADA contributor, and that Harriman's refusal to speak "might be misinterpreted."

At this Harriman shouted in anger that "I'm not running out on ADA the way your friend Adlai Stevenson did." There was no elaboration.

Taken aback by the remark which came without previous mention of the 1952 presidential nominee, Rauh still persisted in (Continued on Page 13, Col. 5)

McClellan May Probe Story Woman's Life Threatened

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said today the Senate Investigations subcommittee may inquire further into a woman witness' story that a Communist threatened her life.

Dark-haired Mary Stella Beynon, 31, who said she is a former FBI undercover informant, told part of the story yesterday as a witness at the subcommittee's last scheduled public hearing before Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) hands its chairmanship over to McClellan in the new Congress.

McClellan says he plans some investigations of Communists, and he told newsmen that one phase "well could be" some follow-through hearings based on Miss Beynon's story of having lived in the shadow of a Communist "death sentence" since 1947. He said he will discuss it with other subcommittee members.

Miss Beynon told the subcommittee that Roy Hudson, whom she described as a former chairman of the Communist party in western Pennsylvania, informed her on May 13, 1947, that "I would not be killed that night, but I was under a death sentence." She said Communists had just learned she was reporting to the FBI.

She mentioned the "death sentence" just as she was winding (Continued on Page 14, Col. 4)

Goldwater May Head Committee

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—White House assent was reported today for a move to name Sen. Goldwater of Arizona as chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee.

If he is chosen by the conference of Republican Senators, Goldwater would step into the place now filled by Sen. Dirksen of Illinois, who could not continue to hold the job under present rules because he is expected to become a candidate for re-election in 1956.

Both Goldwater and Dirksen voted "no" when the Senate on Dec. 2 condemned Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), 67-22, for some of his actions, but when McCarthy criticized President Eisenhower on Dec. 7, Goldwater was among the first to defend the President.

At that time, McCarthy said Eisenhower had congraulated those who had hampered the exposure of Communists. And he accused the President of displaying a "shrinking show of weakness" in dealing with Communist China's imprisonment of 11 American airmen as "spies."

Goldwater announced he was solidly behind Eisenhower and disagreed with what he said was McCarthy's contention that "the Eisenhower administration has not fought communism at home and abroad."

While the choice of a campaign committee chairman lies with the Senate Republicans, some of the leaders were reported to have consulted Eisenhower's closest aides about the situation. They reportedly were told there would be no White House objection to having Goldwater take charge of a campaign in which 17 GOP seats and control of the Senate will be at stake.

The campaign committee chairman is often included in the councils of the GOP Senate leadership, expected to include a solid front of senators who voted against censure of McCarthy.

Sisters of Slain Man Greet Widow Held as Murderer

Mrs. Dorothy Bernice Yankouski, 29, is accused of the fatal shooting of her 28-year-old husband, after a quarrel last Thursday at their Hyde Park, N. Y., home.

Mrs. Yankouski, mother of three small children, called Dutchess County Sheriff Fred Close after the shooting and told him she had just killed her husband.

Her attorney, Richard Russell, asked yesterday's hearing to seek dismissal of the murder charge on grounds of self defense.

Assistant District Attorney Russel Aldrich testified Mrs. Yankouski told him that before the shooting her husband had told her: "I am going to be your executioner."

House Development Is Plan For Wiltwyck Golf Tract

A development of medium-to-high-priced homes is "definitely" being planned for the 103-acre tract purched in November by a group of local business and professional men from the Wiltwyck Golf Club, Inc., is was revealed today by Michael C. Starkman, spokesman for the purchasers.

The tract, part of the former Wiltwyck Golf Course, has a frontage of 1,861 feet on Route 209 and lies just outside the Kingston city line south of the Thruway right-of-way.

The land was purchased Nov. 9 at auction for $88,100. Title was taken last week by the group, which has adopted the name, Golf Course Properties, Inc.

Work on the development is expected to start in about 60 days, according to Starkman, public relations consultant for the purchasers.

At the present time, plans are to erect homes in the $15,000 to $20,000 class, probably of the split level type.

The group also has under consideration—but has reached no definite committment—the possibility of establishing a shopping center on part of the property, Starkman said.

Starkman indicated that the group's planning is flexible, and he said suggestions from the public as to type of homes, price ranges, and other suggestions as to how the group can put the propertly to use to "best serve tthe area" will be welcomed.

Percolation and other tests have been made and show the property well suited for development, he said.

FROM 100 TO 150 HOMES may be constructed, the number depending upon whether a water district is established and whether any of the property is set aside for shopping center use, it was pointed out.

Price of the lots will depend upon their size and on whether the group decides to go into building itself or allows a building contractor to take over, Starkman said.

The spokesman said the members of the group were optimistic about the location, with its nearness to the Kingstorn interchange of the Thruway to Route 28, and its accessibility to Ellenville and the Kerhonkson-Accord area.

At the time of the public auction on Nov. 9, the members of the bidding group were listed as Samuel and Cople Barnovitz, George and Michael Starkman, Abraham Streifer, Sigmund Rudisch and Dr. Murray Fletcher.

Sheppard Faces Another Round in Fight for Retrial

Cleveland, Jan. 4 (AP)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, under a life prison sentence in the killing of his wife, Marilyn, has lost the first round of his fight for a new trial.

Late yesterday Judge Edward Blythin ruled there was "no merit" in any of 41 complaints of error in the 10-week trial which ended Dec. 21 with a jury convicting the 31-year-old osteopath of second degree murder.

With two parts of the error-complaint, Judge Blythin dealt at some length. These were: (1) that the court erred in not granting a request for removal of the trial to another city; and (2) that the intensive news coverage of the trial was prejudicial and tended to persecute the defendant.

On these points, Judge Blythin's memorandum said:

"With present-day means of communication, the same precise stories were simultaneously published in every city and county in the state * * *.

"* * * Such exposures to public attention are not matters of prejudice for or against either the state or defendant, but matters of news interest to newspapers. They remain wholly neutral if fed sufficient news or pictures of interest."

Another round in the fight for a new trial is scheduled for Saturday. Then Sheppard's lawyers get a hearing on their motion based on "newly discovered evidence."

There is a chance this hearing will be continued at a later date, but until it is held by Judge Blythin, an appeal to higher court must wait.

Astor Denies Report

Miami, Fla., Jan. 4 (AP)—John Jacob Astor denies that he has offered his third wife $41,000 as a settlement in her half million dollar divorce suit. Mrs. Astor, the former Mrs. Dolores (Dolly) Fullman, asked half a million in a separate maintenance suit filed here Nov. 22. She gave as grounds something "so intimate in nature" that she didn't describe it in the suit. Astor, in a countersuit, contends their Aug. 6 marriage in Arlington, Va., was not legal because his Mexican divorce from his second wife, Gertrude Gretsch Astor, was invalid.

Pope Is Fatigued

Vatican City, Jan. 4 (AP)—Pope Pius XII was reported today to be somewhat fatigued by overwork, particularly by the labor of drafting his delayed Christmas message. A source close to the 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church said, however, that the slow, gradual improvement in the Pontiff's condition continues. One of the greatest impediments to the Pontiff's faster and fuller recovery is his insistence upon continuing a comparatively heavy program of work, this source said.

Britain Gets Snow

London, Jan. 4 (AP)—The first heavy snow of the season blanketed southern England and Wales today in the wake of a New Year's cold snap. Devon got more than two feet of sticky snow and Dartmouth was isolated from neighboring towns. In London, rooftops were whitened, but in the streets the snow turned quickly to dirty slush. Much of western Europe was dusted with light snow as temperatures dipped below freezing. Paris had a slush cover. Chill winds from the Balkans swept over most of Italy but missed the Rome area.

St. John to Speak

District Attorney Howard C. St. John will deliver a lecture at Kingston High School on Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. as a part of the adult educational program. His topic will be Criminal Law.

Port Ewen

Port Ewen, Jan. 4—All former members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Port Ewen Reformed Church are invited to meet at the home of Mrs. E. E. Saqui on the River road at 8 p. m. tomorrow. There will be a short meeting followed by a social hour.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 4 (AP) — A major selling wave pounded the stock market lower today, but it was able to withstand the worst of the pressure.

The dive was accompanied by a break of more than 6 points in General Motors which had gained 7¼ yesterday.

Prices were down as much as 4 points at the bottom of the decline, but they recovered to the point where losses seldom went past 2 points. A number of leading issues were strong.

Volume was exceedingly heavy with the tape falling as much as five minutes behind in reporting actual floor dealings. The lag lasted more than an hour.

Recruiting Boom Reported To Beat Jan. 31 Deadline

By The Associated Press

Recruiting offices in various parts of the country report that potential enlistees are crowding in to beat the Jan. 31 deadline on many veterans' benefits and privileges.

"We've had so many applicants today that we could hardly move around," said a recruiting officer in Boston yesterday. An army spokesman there, reporting the greatest rush of volunteers since World War II, said there had been 65 enlistments, compared with an average of 3 on a normal day.

THE BOOM came on the first day that recruiting offices were open following last Saturday's announcement that men entering service after Jan. 31 would not be eligible for certain Korean war benefits. These include education and training, vocational rehabilitation, loan guarantees, unemployment compensation, mustering out pay and others.

In Miami, Fla., one recruiter suggested that the spurt there might have been the normal post-holiday increase in enlistments. "We always get an increase after the holiday period," said Sgt. Don Cramer of the South Florida air force recruiting service.

Army, Navy and Marine recruiting stations in New York city reported a lively business. At the main navy station on lower Broadway, 30 out of 50 applicants said they were aware of the benefits deadline.

IN MANY CITIES youths sought induction through their draft boards but were told that draft quotas had been filled until after January.

By getting into service through the draft they would have been liable for only two years of service. Voluntary enlistment in the various services usually involves terms of three or more years. The army has a two-year voluntary enlistment but those who sign up for this period cannot pick their service nor be eligible for special training courses.

In St. Louis most volunteers said they wanted to join before veterans benfits expired. Lt. Col. Fred C. Richmond, administrative officer for the St. Louis area, said 30 applied for voluntary induction into army, against a normal 3 or 4. Since draft quotas were filled for January and February, he said, they were referred to recruiting officers for the various services.

In New York Cmdr. A. D. Garvin, in charge of navy recruiting, said the number of applicants was 2½ times higher than the "most optimistic estimate."

Recruiters throughout the country reported a number of telephone inquiries, indicating there would be continued heavy business for the next few weeks.

Grand Jury Is Organized Today

At the opening of the January trial term of Supreme Court Monday an insufficient number of Grand jurors remained after excuses had been exercised and Presiding Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth, directed an additional panel of six summoned. This morning the Grand jury was organized with John E. Sloan of Shawangunk being named foreman and George Reitmeir of Olive as acting foreman.

Following the charge by Justice Elsworth the grand jury retired to begin its deliberations. There were 17 of the original panel and five of the extra panel remaining to serve.

On the call of the day calendar a negligence action brought by Charles E. Scott and another against Lionel Harold Bishop was moved for trial and a jury was selected. Michael Nardone appears for plaintiffs and Cook & Cook for defendants.

At the opening of the term Monday County Clerk Lawrence D. Craft was present, attending his first term in the official capacity of county clerk. A basket of flowers from well wishers was on his desk.

Ladejinsky Story

was not a qualified farm expert by its standards and was a questionable security risk.

Also figuring in the controversy is a letter, made public at the agriculture department, which some Jewish leaders viewed as having anti-Semitic implications.

THE AUTHOR, George N. Vitt of New York, denied any such intentions. Vitt, a Russian emigre, is industrial editor of American Exporter publications in New York.

Secretary Benson said yesterday it was a "mistake" for the letter to have been released and declared he was "shocked that anti-Semitic implications have been raised."

Benson invited Jewish leaders to confer with him today about the matter.

Shortly before newsmen questioned Hagerty about the Ladejinsky case, Joseph F. Barr, national commander of the Jewish War Veterans, said at the White House that he is not satisfied with Benson's position regarding the agriculture department's handling of the letter.

Barr was one of the Jewish leaders who protested release of the letter last week.

In 1923 he received his MD and in the following year his MA degree from the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University.

House Development Is Plan For Wiltwyck Golf Tract

A development of medium-to-high-priced homes is "definitely" being planned for the 103-acre tract purched in November by a group of local business and professional men from the Wiltwyck Golf Club, Inc., is was revealed today by Michael C. Starkman, spokesman for the purchasers.

The tract, part of the former Wiltwyck Golf Course, has a frontage of 1,861 feet on Route 209 and lies just outside the Kingston city line south of the Thruway right-of-way.

The land was purchased Nov. 9 at auction for $88,100. Title was taken last week by the group, which has adopted the name, Golf Course Properties, Inc.

Work on the development is expected to start in about 60 days, according to Starkman, public relations consultant for the purchasers.

At the present time, plans are to erect homes in the $15,000 to $20,000 class, probably of the split level type.

The group also has under consideration—but has reached no definite committment—the possibility of establishing a shopping center on part of the property, Starkman said.

Starkman indicated that the group's planning is flexible, and he said suggestions from the public as to type of homes, price ranges, and other suggestions as to how the group can put the propertly to use to "best serve tthe area" will be welcomed.

Percolation and other tests have been made and show the property well suited for development, he said.

FROM 100 TO 150 HOMES may be constructed, the number depending upon whether a water district is established and whether any of the property is set aside for shopping center use, it was pointed out.

Price of the lots will depend upon their size and on whether the group decides to go into building itself or allows a building contractor to take over, Starkman said.

The spokesman said the members of the group were optimistic about the location, with its nearness to the Kingstorn interchange of the Thruway to Route 28, and its accessibility to Ellenville and the Kerhonkson-Accord area.

At the time of the public auction on Nov. 9, the members of the bidding group were listed as Samuel and Cople Barnovitz, George and Michael Starkman, Abraham Streifer, Sigmund Rudisch and Dr. Murray Fletcher.

Sheppard Faces Another Round in Fight for Retrial

Cleveland, Jan. 4 (AP)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, under a life prison sentence in the killing of his wife, Marilyn, has lost the first round of his fight for a new trial.

Late yesterday Judge Edward Blythin ruled there was "no merit" in any of 41 complaints of error in the 10-week trial which ended Dec. 21 with a jury convicting the 31-year-old osteopath of second degree murder.

With two parts of the error-complaint, Judge Blythin dealt at some length. These were: (1) that the court erred in not granting a request for removal of the trial to another city; and (2) that the intensive news coverage of the trial was prejudicial and tended to persecute the defendant.

On these points, Judge Blythin's memorandum said:

"With present-day means of communication, the same precise stories were simultaneously published in every city and county in the state * * *.

"* * * Such exposures to public attention are not matters of prejudice for or against either the state or defendant, but matters of news interest to newspapers. They remain wholly neutral if fed sufficient news or pictures of interest."

Another round in the fight for a new trial is scheduled for Saturday. Then Sheppard's lawyers get a hearing on their motion based on "newly discovered evidence."

There is a chance this hearing will be continued at a later date, but until it is held by Judge Blythin, an appeal to higher court must wait.

Mattison Is Chosen

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 4 (AP)—Gov.-elect George M. Leader reached into New York state today to name Dr. Berwyn F. Mattison as the secretary of health in the Pennsylvania cabinet. Mattison, 44-year-old Erie county, N. Y., health commissioner was chosen to succeed Dr. R. E. Teague. Teague appointed by Gov. J. S. Fine, will return to the U. S. Public Health Service from which he had been on "loan." Leader, in naming Mattison to the health post, described him as "one of the nation's authorities in the field of public health."

Three Issues Faced

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 4 (AP)—Connecticut's General Assembly faces three top issues — taxes welfare and highways—after it convenes tomorrow with Abraham A. Ribicoff, a Democrat, succeeding John Lodge, Republican as governor. The House is Republican and the Senate Democrat-controlled. A three per cent Connecticut sales tax is due to revert to two per cent in July, unless an extension is authorized, preliminary budget requests have exceeded the anticipated income on the basis of the three per cent tax.

Coroner Michael A. Galietta said at noon today he has not reached a verdict in the death of Mrs. Anna Nakonechney, 55, of Brooklyn, who was reported struck and killed by an automobile on Route 9W at Ulster Park on Friday evening.

Crosby Cleared, Goes To Army at Fort Ord

Los Angeles, Jan. 4 (AP) — Eleven hours after he had won dismissal of a drunk charge, Dennis Crosby, 20, a twin son of crooner Bing Crosby, left here for Fort Ord and army induction.

"I'll just serve my two years and hope they forget who my dad is," Dennis said last night.

Dennis originally was scheduled for induction Dec. 15 but received a regular Christmas layover. His twin brother, Phillip, is attending Washington State College with an educational deferment.

Dennis was acquitted of drunkenness yesterday by Municipal Judge Robert Clifton, who noted that "the boy has never been in trouble before."

Dennis was arrested in an auto driven by a friend, Hoard N. Gilmore, 21, of Palo Alto, Calif., who was nabbed Sunday on a drunk driving charge.

Nomination Due For Business Men

Officers for 1955 will be nominated at a meeting of the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the supervisors room in the county court house.

President Louis Kantrowitz has notified members that in addition to nomination of officers for the ensuing year there will be a discussion on the 1955 program of the association and a committee will be named to make arrangements for the annual dinner. A report of Christmas lighting will be made.

Astor Denies Report

Miami, Fla., Jan. 4 (AP)—John Jacob Astor denies that he has offered his third wife $41,000 as a settlement in her half million dollar divorce suit. Mrs. Astor, the former Mrs. Dolores (Dolly) Fullman, asked half a million in a separate maintenance suit filed here Nov. 22. She gave as grounds something "so intimate in nature" that she didn't describe it in the suit. Astor, in a countersuit, contends their Aug. 6 marriage in Arlington, Va., was not legal because his Mexican divorce from his second wife, Gertrude Gretsch Astor, was invalid.

Pope Is Fatigued

Vatican City, Jan. 4 (AP)—Pope Pius XII was reported today to be somewhat fatigued by overwork, particularly by the labor of drafting his delayed Christmas message. A source close to the 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church said, however, that the slow, gradual improvement in the Pontiff's condition continues. One of the greatest impediments to the Pontiff's faster and fuller recovery is his insistence upon continuing a comparatively heavy program of work, this source said.

Britain Gets Snow

London, Jan. 4 (AP)—The first heavy snow of the season blanketed southern England and Wales today in the wake of a New Year's cold snap. Devon got more than two feet of sticky snow and Dartmouth was isolated from neighboring towns. In London, rooftops were whitened, but in the streets the snow turned quickly to dirty slush. Much of western Europe was dusted with light snow as temperatures dipped below freezing. Paris had a slush cover. Chill winds from the Balkans swept over most of Italy but missed the Rome area.

St. John to Speak

District Attorney Howard C. St. John will deliver a lecture at Kingston High School on Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. as a part of the adult educational program. His topic will be Criminal Law.

Port Ewen

Port Ewen, Jan. 4—All former members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Port Ewen Reformed Church are invited to meet at the home of Mrs. E. E. Saqui on the River road at 8 p. m. tomorrow. There will be a short meeting followed by a social hour.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 4 (AP) — A major selling wave pounded the stock market lower today, but it was able to withstand the worst of the pressure.

The dive was accompanied by a break of more than 6 points in General Motors which had gained 7¼ yesterday.

Prices were down as much as 4 points at the bottom of the decline, but they recovered to the point where losses seldom went past 2 points. A number of leading issues were strong.

Volume was exceedingly heavy with the tape falling as much as five minutes behind in reporting actual floor dealings. The lag lasted more than an hour.

Recruiting Boom Reported To Beat Jan. 31 Deadline

By The Associated Press

Recruiting offices in various parts of the country report that potential enlistees are crowding in to beat the Jan. 31 deadline on many veterans' benefits and privileges.

"We've had so many applicants today that we could hardly move around," said a recruiting officer in Boston yesterday. An army spokesman there, reporting the greatest rush of volunteers since World War II, said there had been 65 enlistments, compared with an average of 3 on a normal day.

THE BOOM came on the first day that recruiting offices were open following last Saturday's announcement that men entering service after Jan. 31 would not be eligible for certain Korean war benefits. These include education and training, vocational rehabilitation, loan guarantees, unemployment compensation, mustering out pay and others.

In Miami, Fla., one recruiter suggested that the spurt there might have been the normal post-holiday increase in enlistments. "We always get an increase after the holiday period," said Sgt. Don Cramer of the South Florida air force recruiting service.

Army, Navy and Marine recruiting stations in New York city reported a lively business. At the main navy station on lower Broadway, 30 out of 50 applicants said they were aware of the benefits deadline.

IN MANY CITIES youths sought induction through their draft boards but were told that draft quotas had been filled until after January.

By getting into service through the draft they would have been liable for only two years of service. Voluntary enlistment in the various services usually involves terms of three or more years. The army has a two-year voluntary enlistment but those who sign up for this period cannot pick their service nor be eligible for special training courses.

In St. Louis most volunteers said they wanted to join before veterans benfits expired. Lt. Col. Fred C. Richmond, administrative officer for the St. Louis area, said 30 applied for voluntary induction into army, against a normal 3 or 4. Since draft quotas were filled for January and February, he said, they were referred to recruiting officers for the various services.

In New York Cmdr. A. D. Garvin, in charge of navy recruiting, said the number of applicants was 2½ times higher than the "most optimistic estimate."

Recruiters throughout the country reported a number of telephone inquiries, indicating there would be continued heavy business for the next few weeks.

Grand Jury Is Organized Today

At the opening of the January trial term of Supreme Court Monday an insufficient number of Grand jurors remained after excuses had been exercised and Presiding Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth, directed an additional panel of six summoned. This morning the Grand jury was organized with John E. Sloan of Shawangunk being named foreman and George Reitmeir of Olive as acting foreman.

Following the charge by Justice Elsworth the grand jury retired to begin its deliberations. There were 17 of the original panel and five of the extra panel remaining to serve.

On the call of the day calendar a negligence action brought by Charles E. Scott and another against Lionel Harold Bishop was moved for trial and a jury was selected. Michael Nardone appears for plaintiffs and Cook & Cook for defendants.

At the opening of the term Monday County Clerk Lawrence D. Craft was present, attending his first term in the official capacity of county clerk. A basket of flowers from well wishers was on his desk.

Ladejinsky Story

was not a qualified farm expert by its standards and was a questionable security risk.

Also figuring in the controversy is a letter, made public at the agriculture department, which some Jewish leaders viewed as having anti-Semitic implications.

THE AUTHOR, George N. Vitt of New York, denied any such intentions. Vitt, a Russian emigre, is industrial editor of American Exporter publications in New York.

Secretary Benson said yesterday it was a "mistake" for the letter to have been released and declared he was "shocked that anti-Semitic implications have been raised."

Benson invited Jewish leaders to confer with him today about the matter.

Shortly before newsmen questioned Hagerty about the Ladejinsky case, Joseph F. Barr, national commander of the Jewish War Veterans, said at the White House that he is not satisfied with Benson's position regarding the agriculture department's handling of the letter.

Barr was one of the Jewish leaders who protested release of the letter last week.

Jelke Returns For Consultation

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Minot F. (Mickey) Jelke flew in from Miami, Fla., early today for consultation with his lawyers about his new cafe society vice trial.

While reporters and cameramen clustered around, Jelke's attorney, George Washington Herz, said his client welcomes the chance to clear himself in a second trial.

The 24-year-old oleomargarine heir chimed in: "I certainly second that — having an opportunity to vindicate myself."

Except for a "good morning" to reporters, he had nothing further to say.

HERZ SPOKE for Jelke. "We'll try to get before the jury that Jelke was victimized by cafe society and (was) not the procurer," he stated. Jelke is accused of arranging dates and sharing fees of high-priced cafe society call girls.

Jelke, convicted two years ago on compulsory prostitution charges, gets a new trial as the result of a state court of appeals decision last Friday. The court threw out the first trial and ordered a new one because trial Judge Francis L. Valente had barred the press and public from the prosecution phase of the case.

Herz said at the airport: "Those who testify glibly in the grand jury rooms may not testify to the same facts in an open court room."

"WE HOPE that witnesses may come forward to testify in Mickey's behalf," he added.

Jelke, who was married since his first trial, left his wife, the former Sylvia Eder, in Miami. She had been with him in his apartment when he was arrested for the original trial.

As Jelke and his lawyers left the airport, Herz said Mickey was headed for the home of his socialite mother, Mrs. Ralph W. Teal, at Danbury, Conn.

Expected to arrive in New York on a later plane today was movie actor Richard Short, one of a number of witnesses rounded up for the case by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan. The district attorney's office said Short was aboard a plane coming from Los Angeles.

So far, Hogan's office has arrested five women in connection with the case and is holding them in bail as material witnesses.

Two are Pat Ward, 21, and Marguerite Cordova, 27, both of whom are involved in the two charges on which Jelke was convicted in the last trial. He was then found guilty of inducing Miss Ward into prostitution and of trying to do the same with Miss Cordova.

A spokesman for the district attorney said the prosecution fully expected to be able to get another conviction. Although the first trial was upset because of the news blackout, he said, the State Supreme Court Appellate Division, to which the case was first appealed, unanimously agreed there was "sufficient evidence to sustain the verdict of guilty."

VA Requests Full Questionnaire Data

Annual income questionnaires are in the mail to 924,000 veterans and widows and children of deceased veterans who are receiving disability and death pension, the Veterans Administration announced today.

VA urged all those who receive questionnaires to fill them out completely and return them immediately to the VA offices which sent them.

Unless properly filled-out questionnaires are returned to VA within 30 days, pension payments must be stopped, VA said.

Questionnaires are mailed yearly because pensions are subject to annual income limitations. The current questionnaires request data on 1954 annual income and anticipated 1955 income. They are being mailed to 490,000 veterans and to the 434,000 widows and children of 319,000 deceased veterans.

Pensions are payable to certain eligible veterans of World War 1, World War 2 and Korea who are permanently and totally disabled from causes not connected with their service in the armed forces, and to certain widows and children of veterans of these wars who die of nonservice-connected causes. In both cases, the annual income of those receiving pension must not exceed $1,400, without dependents, or $2,700, with dependents.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Just what do we mean by "Free Enterprise"? How does it differ from the "Planned Economy" of Socialism or Communism? Well, I reckon the way my breakfast gets on the table is part of the answer.

Mr. Hutton

Coffee from Brazil; sugar from Cuba or Colorado, maybe; butter from Wisconsin, perhaps; eggs from any one of a million farms; toast from the wheat fields of a dozen states.

I don't know a single one of the farmers, processors, importers, truckers, or wholesalers who handled the stuff. None of them know me. Beyond my groceryman, I gave no orders to anybody. Yet there is breakfast, piping hot and smelling good.

Talk about magic. No Master Plan. No Master Planners. No serf nor slave. No world government ordered anybody anywhere to feed me.

It was all done by the free act of hundreds of thousands of free men. Why? Simply the hope of making a living in supplying a market. My demand, reflected in prices telegraphed around the world, told them I would want breakfast this morning.

Socialism, which is deordorized Communism, compels people to work; where to work; for whom; and for what, — or go to Siberia.

But who gets as good a breakfast as you and I?

Right, — neighbor?

General Motors To Offer Stock

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—General Motors Corp., at midpoint in a two-year billion dollar expansion program, is going to raise 325 million dollars for new growth through sale of common stock to its present stockholders rather than go to bankers for a loan or new debentures.

Current GM shareholders will be offered the right to subscribe to one new share of common for each 20 shares held.

That decision by the corporation's directors yesterday came at the close of an acrobatic day on the New York stock exchange for GM common.

WALL STREET was alive with rumors that General Motors planned a stock dividend or a stock split, or that an anti-trust action might result in an eventual stock split.

The rumor mill was spiced Sunday by a statement from Federal Trade Commissioner Edward F. Howrey. Speaking on an "American Forum" television program, Howrey remarked that General Motors was too big but he didn't know what could be done about it.

These rumors proved groundless but GM stock, with 65,400 shares traded, was the day's most active issue. It closed at $105.12, up $7.25. At one point, it had jumped more than $9.

GM sold below its New York closing price on the Los Angeles and San Francisco stock exchanges. It closed at $102.62 at Los Angeles where 300 shares changed hands after the announcement at 4:45 p. m., EST.

At San Francisco, 200 shares were traded at $104 a share.

The price of the new stock to be offered GM shareholders has not yet been determined.

Certificate Halts Couple's Eviction

Yonkers, Jan. 4 (AP)—A doctor's certificate of illness has delayed the eviction of Mr. and Mrs. William Talunas from their three-room cottage which stands in the path of the New York State Thruway.

Thruway officials say the Talunas home at 1037 Midland avenue is the last habitation obstructing completion of the New York city-Buffalo highway.

Deputy City Marshal Julius Lichtenberg, accompanied by a crew of moving men, went to the house yesterday with an eviction warrant signed by City Judge Albert L. Fiorello.

Talunas displayed a doctor's certificate that his wife was suffering from fever and from a blood clot in an arm—which raised the legal point against dispossessing an ill person.

Lichtenberg did not press the issue. Plans were made for a conference in the near future, with Talunas, Lichtenberg and representatives of the State Thruway Authority invited to appear before Fiorello.

Talunas and his wife contend the state never negotiated with them to buy their property. State officials contend they did.

Awards Ahead For Two Contests On Thrift Essays

Two contests, with 14 prizes for students attending Kingston schools, were announced today by Albert Kurdt, chairman of the Kingston Thrift Committee.

The contests are part of a program being sponsored by the citizens committee in honor of National Thrift Week, Jan. 17 to 22.

Ten prizes are being offered to grade school students for the 10 best posters on the general subject of Thrift or Saving.

Four prizes also are offered to high school students for the four best essays or statements, of not to exceed 100 words, on one of five topics all relating to thrift.

Copies of the details, rules and regulations of both contests can be obtained from school principals and may also be obtained at the office of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

FREE COPIES of the 14 page booklet Let Thrift Be Your Ruling Habit by Elbert Hubbard, also are available at the schools or the Chamber of Commerce office on request. It is suggested that all students intending to submit posters or essays obtain a copy of the thrift booklet.

The 10 prizes in the poster contest and the four in the essay contest will consist of savings account passbooks issued by one of the nine financial institutions in the city. In passbooks for the essay contest $10 will be deposited in the name of the winner and in the poster contest $5 will be deposited.

All entries in both contests must be submitted before 5 p. m. Friday, Jan. 14. They may be left with the school principal or at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Plans have already been completed to award the contest prizes on a simultaneous radio and television broadcast Monday, Jan. 17 from 9:05 to 9:30 p. m. in honor of Thrift Week.

Shoed Into Prison

Norfolk, Va. (AP)—James Andrew Washington Evans, 36, a man who went burgling barefoot, told the judge he took up stealing when, try as he would, he couldn't earn enough money by working for it. Evans, a former $5,800 a year estimator-planner at the Naval Air Station, was sentenced to 10 years in prison on his plea of guilty to 16 felony charges—14 burglaries, two attempts. He left his shoes behind on one job and that gave police their lead.

The court threw out the first trial and ordered a new one because trial Judge Francis L. Valente had barred the press and public from the prosecution phase of the case.

Herz said at the airport: "Those who testify glibly in the grand jury rooms may not testify to the same facts in an open court room."

"WE HOPE that witnesses may come forward to testify in Mickey's behalf," he added.

Jelke, who was married since his first trial, left his wife, the former Sylvia Eder, in Miami. She had been with him in his apartment when he was arrested for the original trial.

As Jelke and his lawyers left the airport, Herz said Mickey was headed for the home of his socialite mother, Mrs. Ralph W. Teal, at Danbury, Conn.

Expected to arrive in New York on a later plane today was movie actor Richard Short, one of a number of witnesses rounded up for the case by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan. The district attorney's office said Short was aboard a plane coming from Los Angeles.

So far, Hogan's office has arrested five women in connection with the case and is holding them in bail as material witnesses.

Two are Pat Ward, 21, and Marguerite Cordova, 27, both of whom are involved in the two charges on which Jelke was convicted in the last trial. He was then found guilty of inducing Miss Ward into prostitution and of trying to do the same with Miss Cordova.

A spokesman for the district attorney said the prosecution fully expected to be able to get another conviction. Although the first trial was upset because of the news blackout, he said, the State Supreme Court Appellate Division, to which the case was first appealed, unanimously agreed there was "sufficient evidence to sustain the verdict of guilty."

VA Requests Full Questionnaire Data

Annual income questionnaires are in the mail to 924,000 veterans and widows and children of deceased veterans who are receiving disability and death pension, the Veterans Administration announced today.

VA urged all those who receive questionnaires to fill them out completely and return them immediately to the VA offices which sent them.

Unless properly filled-out questionnaires are returned to VA within 30 days, pension payments must be stopped, VA said.

Questionnaires are mailed yearly because pensions are subject to annual income limitations. The current questionnaires request data on 1954 annual income and anticipated 1955 income. They are being mailed to 490,000 veterans and to the 434,000 widows and children of 319,000 deceased veterans.

Pensions are payable to certain eligible veterans of World War 1, World War 2 and Korea who are permanently and totally disabled from causes not connected with their service in the armed forces, and to certain widows and children of veterans of these wars who die of nonservice-connected causes. In both cases, the annual income of those receiving pension must not exceed $1,400, without dependents, or $2,700, with dependents.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Just what do we mean by "Free Enterprise"? How does it differ from the "Planned Economy" of Socialism or Communism? Well, I reckon the way my breakfast gets on the table is part of the answer.

Mr. Hutton

Coffee from Brazil; sugar from Cuba or Colorado, maybe; butter from Wisconsin, perhaps; eggs from any one of a million farms; toast from the wheat fields of a dozen states.

I don't know a single one of the farmers, processors, importers, truckers, or wholesalers who handled the stuff. None of them know me. Beyond my groceryman, I gave no orders to anybody. Yet there is breakfast, piping hot and smelling good.

Talk about magic. No Master Plan. No Master Planners. No serf nor slave. No world government ordered anybody anywhere to feed me.

It was all done by the free act of hundreds of thousands of free men. Why? Simply the hope of making a living in supplying a market. My demand, reflected in prices telegraphed around the world, told them I would want breakfast this morning.

Socialism, which is deordorized Communism, compels people to work; where to work; for whom; and for what, — or go to Siberia.

But who gets as good a breakfast as you and I?

Right, — neighbor?

General Motors To Offer Stock

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—General Motors Corp., at midpoint in a two-year billion dollar expansion program, is going to raise 325 million dollars for new growth through sale of common stock to its present stockholders rather than go to bankers for a loan or new debentures.

Current GM shareholders will be offered the right to subscribe to one new share of common for each 20 shares held.

That decision by the corporation's directors yesterday came at the close of an acrobatic day on the New York stock exchange for GM common.

WALL STREET was alive with rumors that General Motors planned a stock dividend or a stock split, or that an antitrust action might result in an eventual stock split.

The rumor mill was spiced Sunday by a statement from Federal Trade Commissioner Edward F. Howrey. Speaking on an "American Forum" television program, Howrey remarked that General Motors was too big but he didn't know what could be done about it.

These rumors proved groundless but GM stock, with 65,400 shares traded, was the day's most active issue. It closed at $105.12, up $7.25. At one point, it had jumped more than $9.

GM sold below its New York closing price on the Los Angeles and San Francisco stock exchanges. It closed at $102.62 at Los Angeles where 300 shares changed hands after the announcement at 4:45 p. m., EST.

At San Francisco, 200 shares were traded at $104 a share.

The price of the new stock to be offered GM shareholders has not yet been determined.

Certificate Halts Couple's Eviction

Yonkers, Jan. 4 (AP)—A doctor's certificate of illness has delayed the eviction of Mr. and Mrs. William Talunas from their three-room cottage which stands in the path of the New York State Thruway.

Thruway officials say the Talunas home at 1037 Midland avenue is the last habitation obstructing completion of the New York city-Buffalo highway.

Deputy City Marshal Julius Lichtenberg, accompanied by a crew of moving men, went to the house yesterday with an eviction warrant signed by City Judge Albert L. Fiorello.

Talunas displayed a doctor's certificate that his wife was suffering from fever and from a blood clot in an arm—which raised the legal point against dispossessing an ill person.

Lichtenberg did not press the issue. Plans were made for a conference in the near future, with Talunas, Lichtenberg and representatives of the State Thruway Authority invited to appear before Fiorello.

Talunas and his wife contend the state never negotiated with them to buy their property. State officials contend they did.

Awards Ahead For Two Contests On Thrift Essays

Two contests, with 14 prizes for students attending Kingston schools, were announced today by Albert Kurdt, chairman of the Kingston Thrift Committee.

The contests are part of a program being sponsored by the citizens committee in honor of National Thrift Week, Jan. 17 to 22.

Ten prizes are being offered to grade school students for the 10 best posters on the general subject of Thrift or Saving.

Four prizes also are offered to high school students for the four best essays or statements, of not to exceed 100 words, on one of five topics all relating to thrift.

Copies of the details, rules and regulations of both contests can be obtained from school principals and may also be obtained at the office of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

FREE COPIES of the 14 page booklet Let Thrift Be Your Ruling Habit by Elbert Hubbard, also are available at the schools or the Chamber of Commerce office on request. It is suggested that all students intending to submit posters or essays obtain a copy of the thrift booklet.

The 10 prizes in the poster contest and the four in the essay contest will consist of savings account passbooks issued by one of the nine financial institutions in the city. In passbooks for the essay contest $10 will be deposited in the name of the winner and in the poster contest $5 will be deposited.

All entries in both contests must be submitted before 5 p. m. Friday, Jan. 14. They may be left with the school principal or at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Plans have already been completed to award the contest prizes on a simultaneous radio and television broadcast Monday, Jan. 17 from 9:05 to 9:30 p. m. in honor of Thrift Week.

Shoed Into Prison

Norfolk, Va. (AP)—James Andrew Washington Evans, 36, a man who went burgling barefoot, told the judge he took up stealing when, try as he would, he couldn't earn enough money by working for it. Evans, a former $5,800 a year estimator-planner at the Naval Air Station, was sentenced to 10 years in prison on his plea of guilty to 16 felony charges—14 burglaries, two attempts. He left his shoes behind on one job and that gave police their lead.

THE TEST OF LIVING

Not long back an American playwright wrote a play in which half a dozen middle-aged people, gathered together more or less accidentally, found themselves taking stock of their lives up to that time.

All of them realized with something of a shock that they had not accomplished much, that fame and greatness had eluded them, that their lives were empty of "big moments."

Finally, one man says, with a sad perception of a blunt truth:

"There ARE no big moments unless you have a pile of small moments to build upon."

What he meant was that for most of us achievement follows only upon painstaking preparation. Greatness is seldom a thing of quick, flashing inspiration, except in some kinds of artistic endeavor.

The man who goes through life pursuing the "big moment" may exhaust himself in the chase if he does not understand that the laborious building up of small moments is the only sure course. Without this, he will look back at 50 upon a life that seems a barren wasteland.

For many of us, no doubt, there can never be anything but small moments. We can pile them up, but we cannot erect a bigger edifice upon them.

This should not move us to deep regret. The big moments, and the great men, are few. The test of living is the ability to make the most of the small moments, to push life to the farthest horizons permitted by one's limitations.

As there are no great moments without a base of smaller ones, so there are no great men without the vast accumulated accomplishments and experience of smaller ones to draw upon.

We are all part of the long bridge of time, of human history. Without our massive total outpouring of effort, there would be no nation, no civilization, nothing from which greatness could spring.

No one who builds good character in himself, who lovingly tends the growth and security of his family, who devotes full energies to his work and his pleasure, ought ever to fear that his life will seem a desert.

If he does all these things, even though greatness may never touch him he will make a great contribution to the world he lives in. He will be just one stone in the long bridge, looking very much like the one alongside.

But without that stone, and the next, and the next, the endless span would crumble and there would be no support for human life on this planet. Every single stone has its place.

At last Russia is willing to cooperate in a great international undertaking. This is a worldwide effort to study the physics of the earth, its atmosphere and the space outside. It is planned in 1957-58 to make simultaneous observations all over the world about these phenomena, and Russia has agreed to let its scientists join and give out their findings.

People love to worry. When the stock market was down, they were unhappy. Now that it's up to its best level in history, they're worried again. The trouble with worry is that while a fellow is engaged in worry he can't be making or laying up a nickel.

Just about the time the pressure of the holidays is about to drive one to despair, the grandchildren or others of the youthful set have a mysterious ability to make it all worth while.

In seeking the best, try first to get it out of yourself, rather than trying to get the best of the other fellow.

Even the best of family budgets is bound to be squeezed if the neighbors keep doing things that others can't afford.

And then there was the editorial writer who not only wrote, but dined on, barbecued beefs.

'These Days'

WORLD LEADERSHIP

Last Summer, "The Manchester Guardian" said:

"Only the United States can lead the Western world, and it is no longer doing so. Only the United States has (or had) the resources, vigour, and idealism for the task. Its leadership is failing for two reasons—weakness within the Administration, and an honest divergence of view between America and the other Western nations. . . ."

The essential fault in their logic is that the question is not asked whether the American people are anxious or desirous or even willing to assume for a protracted historic period the responsibilities and obligations of world leadership. While it may be true that some political leaders and a few publishers of and writers for newspapers and magazines are all excited about the United States leading the Western world, by and large the American citizen finds that his country has been worked into a position that brings to him only high taxes, a high cost of living, a depreciated currency and the constant probability of war. He does not like it. He is tired of war. He is tired of the constant talk of war and Communism and Russia. He wants to return to the simplicities of American living.

World leadership realistically can be handled only by a country that wants something concrete, such as colonial territory, additional population, guaranteed sources of foodstuffs and raw materials, controlled markets, etc. The United States wants nothing but peace and the American mind has never become adjusted to the politics of war. Perhaps that is why our intelligence services have never matured and why we are so often surprised by the course of events, as apparently our government was when Mendes-France got a bad vote on the German question.

The American prefers to do his business forthright and direct and when he tries to be devious, as he needs to be in world leadership, he often becomes ludicrous. He finds it difficult to weigh traditional hatreds against the necessities of finding a way to peace. It is the ingenue playing the heavy.

"The Manchester Guardian" does discover a little of American public opinion when it says:

". . . The United States—both its Government and apparently most of its people—believes that negotiation with the Communists is a dangerous waste of time. This view is shared by no other major Government in the West. . . ."

It does not matter that that view is shared by no other Government in the West; it is enough for most Americans to recognize that we were gypped at Teheran, Yalta, Potsdam, Geneva and Panmunjom and that an agreement with the Russians may be violated even while it is being negotiated. To use the vulgar language of trade, the Russians have no line of credit in this country and nobody can establish such a line but the Russians themselves. As popular as President Eisenhower is, most Americans would distrust the results of his attending a Four Power Conference.

This is particularly true as one of the objectives of such a Conference would have to be to find a way to placate Soviet Russia and Red China by a seat in the United Nations. The formula is already available, namely, that two Chinas are to be recognized, Red China and something that the Western nations like to call the Republic of Formosa which does not exist and cannot exist without violating the sentiments of every Chinese on Formosa, on the mainland and overseas. Whoever is the author of such a formula certainly does not know Chinese history or understand the nature of the Chinese people.

How can a President of the United States meet with Malenkov on such a question? As things are today, the suspicion would be—and as of this moment, I believe it would be an unfair suspicion—that the British have again succeeded in getting the Americans to do something detrimental to American interests. Surely, it would not enhance Eisenhower's political stature and it would give the Conservative Republicans an opportunity to attack him on the floor of the Senate on an issue rather than on personal and political differences.

There would be little jealousy in the United States if the British took back their title to world leadership. We would congratulate them and wish that they wear that robe in good health.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

TEACHING THE OUT-PATIENT

Our hospitals have become so overcrowded in late years that physicians have been looking about not only for more accommodation but also to try to help more patients on an outpatient basis. Also, recent developments in fighting infections have reduced the need for bed care in treating illness and have thus increased the number of patients who are up and about and yet still require attention.

"For the past two years a new system of caring for the ambulatory (up and about) patient and for teaching medical students in the outpatient department has been in effect at the University of Oklahoma Hospitals. The outpatient department has often been a crowded accessory that has been adapted neither to the comfort and welfare of the patient nor to the effective teaching of the students."

Traditionally, the emphasis in teaching internal medicine has been on the bed patient but now that there are so many outpatients, physicians and students are being brought more into contact with the patient in his day-to-day environment and are beginning to realize that the problems a patient has to meet in his daily life outside the hospital may have a very powerful effect on his disease. This has brought about a more comprehensive point-of-view of the patient and his background.

Before this new program was begun, there was little opportunity for the student to become really familiar with a patient. Much of his time was spent with thick charts of patients with whom he was not familiar. After a brief glimpse, the student often shifted the patient to another clinic so that there was little opportunity of instilling in the student a sense of continuing responsibility for his patient.

Under this new method, every patient over 14 years of age is assigned first to the medical clinic where a careful general examination is made by a fourth year student under his instructor's supervision. This patient then becomes that student's responsibility. If referral to another clinic is considered necessary, the student arranges for the patient to come on a day when he too will be there and will present the case to the consultant in charge of the clinic. Many medical specialty clinics were eliminated and instead these specialists were assigned to the medical clinic so that an expert in each field was available at nearly every clinic session.

What are some of the results of this changed attitude toward specialty clinics? For one thing, the number of referrals to other clinics was cut down by as much as 70 per cent because referring a patient to another clinic merely meant referring him to yourself in another clinic. This meant less crowding, less waiting on benches and in lines, and less duplication of effort. There was immediately less congestion in the outpatient department as a whole. Anyone who has had to attend the outpatient department of a large hospital will realize what a great step forward this could be to the general public.

The Fliers' Lives Are Not All That's at Stake

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Clarence B. Randall, chairman of the board of Inland Steel has been having a tough time trying to put over President Eisenhower's foreign trade program. But at last he seems to be making progress.

Since bringing out the report of the Randall Commission of 17 Congressmen and business leaders last January, Mr. Randall has been working half-time as a White House consultant. He has reviewed the program to see if there were bugs in it. And he has listened and talked to anyone interested in this subject of tariffs and foreign trade, seizing every opportunity to urge adoption of the program by Congress in 1955.

ONE OF HIS prize speeches on this subject was made before the big and powerful National Manufacturers Assn., in New York. This group, as conservative as any business organization in the country, is split right down the middle on whether the reciprocal trade agreements program should be extended.

Companies with a big export business are for it. Companies who have to compete with imports from abroad are dead against it. NAM is so divided on this subject that it refuses to take any policy stand of its own on the question.

In spite of this, Mr. Randall bearded the lions in their Waldorf-Astoria banquet room den, and tired to tell them the facts of foreign economic life, according to modern gospel.

AS HE WAS COMING down in the elevator next morning, a couple whom he didn't know recognized him and smiled. The man spoke to Mr. Randall and said: "Come here, brother, and shake hands. Gad, how I loathed every word you said last night. But you converted my wife."

This simple statement revealed one of the most striking developments in this perennial, national debate. The women's organizations seem to be all for expanding foreign trade. It's the men who are divided.

The major farm groups—Grange and Farm Bureau—are for it. Farmers' Union, made up of smaller farmers, is opposed.

THE NATIONAL LABOR union organizations are for it—American Federation of Labor and CIO. David J. McDonald, head of the Steelworkers union, who has battled Mr. Randall on many a labor contract, was a public member of the Randall Commission and voted right along with the chairman on practically every issue.

But many local unions of ceramics, textile and other industries which must compete with imports, will line up with their bosses against the program when Senate Finance and House Ways and Means Committees begin hearings on legislation to carry out the Randall Commission program.

The chances for passage of a three-year extension of the trade program with supplementary legislation look a lot better than they did a year ago. In the last Congress, a one-year extension was the most that could be secured.

Assurances have been given that there will be no "end run" by Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, carrying the ball, behind high-tariff business interference.

Nevertheless, the battle over passage will be bitter. Just how bitter it will be is perhaps best indicated by the experience of Mr. Randall's own Inland Steel Co. One of its customers recently cancelled a $20,000 order because of the prominent part the chairman has played in this work.

A boycott was then organized in an attempt to make its suppliers take Inland off their trade list.

That shows how high the stakes are, and how the game is being played for the prize in this most controversial issue.

Although the evidence is inconclusive, many students believe the horse was domesticated in the Bronze age.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Jan. 4, 1935—Augustus Bunse was elected president of Rapid Hose Company.

Temperatures close to zero were reported in the area.

Mrs. Louis B. VanGaasbeek, one of the older members of the First Dutch Reformed Church, died.

Jan. 4, 1945—Fire, believed of incendiary origin, damaged a two-family house on Tompkins street.

Joseph Epstein, Kingston Democrat, was elected president of the Ulster County Board of Elections.

Loss by fire, which damaged two barns on the Joseph Brill dairy farm near Stone Ridge Dec. 3, was estimated at $12,000.

Nelson G. Cochrane, of Pine street, who for 42 years was freight and passenger agent at the O & W station, retired after a total of 52 years of railroading.

FEPC Inclusion Seen as Necessary in President's Legislative Program

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 4 — There's one item thus far omitted from President Eisenhower's proposed legislative program, and that's a recommendation for the enactment of a fair employment practices commission.

Unless included, it may render meaningless the label 'moderate progressive" by which the White House describes its philosophical position nowadays.

For the "FEPC," which has been blocked in Congress by a filibuster of Southern Democrats, becomes a logical measure at least for consideration now that the Supreme Court of the United States has decreed that there can be no racial discrimination in the schools.

The House of Representatives and the Senate both have been known to have majorities ready to pass the legislation. But the difficulty has been to get the measure to a vote in the Senate because of filibustering. Now, however, that "legislative obstruction" has been declared to be an offense against ethics and is held to bring the dignity of the Senate into disrepute, there can hardly be any filibustering without stultifying the 67 Senators who voted to condemn Senator McCarthy for "legislative obstruction." This number is more than two-thirds of the Senate — enough to alter the rules and cut off unlimited debate.

President Eisenhower is on record as having congratulated Senator Watkins for leading a successful fight against the Wisconsin Senator, and it doesn't seem plausible that Mr. Eisenhower would refrain from asserting his leadership if a measure as important to the progressive cause as is the "FEPC" should require his help.

It is true the President for a long time took the position that the rules of the Senate were the Senate's problem, but he modified this under pressure from his followers and certainly he has a constitutional right to recommend the adoption of legislation covering racial or religious discrimination in employment.

The whole program was an issue in the 1952 campaign and Mr. Eisenhower won wide support in the South because of his emphasis on states' rights. His position was interpreted as meaning that he would not favor federal legislation on the subject. Since that time, however, the President's own Attorney General appeared before the Supreme Court and pleaded with the court to denounce state laws which permitted racial segregation in the schools. The Supreme Court accepted the plea by a unanimous decision. From that time on, Mr. Eisenhower, in effect, has been committed to federal enforcement of all constitutional rights relating to discrimination.

Up to now, the Eisenhower administration has dealt with the issue of discrimination in employment by indirection. An executive order has been issued which stipulates that government contracts, whether for defense work or anything else, shall not be awarded—irrespective of the bids—to any contractor who permits discrimination because of race, religion or national origin.

But there is really no sound basis in existing law for such an order. Besides, it applies only to those who accept contracts for work with the government. If the principle is sound for government contractors, it is argued now that the same prohibition should be written into law so as to apply to all employers.

The argument for state handling of the matter has considerable support in Congress, because New York state, with a commission and a law that does not prescribe penalties but depends primarily on public opinion, has been operating successfully. It is believed nevertheless that a bill based on the voluntary principle, such as the House of Representatives passed on February 23, 1950, by a vote of 240 to 177, would be passed again by the House.

The question now is what the southern Democrats in the Senate would do about it. Mr. Eisenhower, of course, as the leader of a coalition of "left wing" Republicans and "left wing" Democrats in both Houses, has an opportunity to champion the measure and possibly secure its adoption in the Senate.

It will be interesting to see whether the northern Democrats who led the fight for "civil rights" in the 1952 national Democratic convention are going to surrender to the "right wing" of their party and ignore one of the most important planks espoused by present-day "liberals." There has been a strange silence on the subject thus far, and one wonders if, merely for reasons of political expediency—something which true liberals usually abhor—any proposals for a fair employment practices commission will be killed in the new Congress.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 3—The next governor of Arkansas, Orval Faubus, who will take office on Jan. 10, has been vague about his activity as an undergraduate at Commonwealth College, at Mena, Ark., in 1935. But he has been nailed down to admissions that he received a scholarship in the mail from sources unknown to him and that he was elected president of the student body.

The length of his stay is not stated either by Faubus or by any of the records of Commonwealth, which was put out of business as a subversive institution by the decision of a rural justice of the peace in 1941. Commonwealth was condemned as a Communist enterprise by the House Committee on Un-American Activities; by Tom Clark when he was attorney general and by a joint committee of the Arkansas Legislature, which expressed its decision before Faubus matriculated in April, 1935. The controversy has brought to his defense the Arkansas Gazette, a property with both political and financial power, owned by a family of normal American capitalist tradition. Its editor, Harry S. Ashmore, has befriended him and has produced a book under the financial patronage of the Ford Foundation. The Gazette took the editorial position that the Communist college issue was "a shabby device, essentially spurious on its face."

The Gazette seems to take no very serious view of inconsistencies which come down to fundamental issues of truth or falsehood as to the new governor's previous activities and his political philosophy. There were irregularities in the voting by which Faubus defeated Francis Cherry in the Democratic intra-party showdown which sufficies for the electoral process in the one-party states of the southern tier. However, these irregularities, though probably provable, will not be brought to trial and I believe there is little editorial or popular indignation over them. Of course, some journalists in Arkansas oppose Faubus and deplore his success. But the case does seem to be a lost cause.

One campaigner who continues to hammer away is John F. Wells, publisher of a political weekly called the Arkansas Recorder, in Little Rock. He has an ally of proven courage and uncompromising integrity named Charles Emery, formerly special agent in charge of the Little Rock unit of the income tax department. Emery was thwarted and forced to retire after 25 years when he persisted in examining the income and taxes of Sid McMath, who served two terms as governor from 1948 through 1952.

McMath and Faubus are a team in politics. McMath had strong connections with the Truman administration, whose stronghold in Kansas City remains a regional political capital of this Democratic area.

Emery's most famous success was the Brown-Bioff movie racket in Hollywood. He prepared the income tax data which sent these two union racketeers to prison for brief, pleasant sojourns and which was the basis for other successful prosecutions. Some of the worst criminals of the batch, common underworld rodents from Chicago, did business with Democratic politicians and got out of prison prematurely, but of course nothing ever was done about that.

In the McMath case, Emery was called to Washington and given two hours to decide whether he would accept a transfer to Chicago. This would take the McMath case out of his hands. It also was a painful prospect for a family man with his own home who had put his roots down in Little Rock. So Emery retired on his pension and returned to Little Rock to practice as an expert consultant in income and estate taxes.

One thing taken with another Emery was very offensive to the Democratic administrations, both federal and state. The day he entered private practice in Little Rock he sent his professional card to McMath. This, of course, was only a gesture because the law forbade him to represent McMath in any negotiations with internal revenue about a tax problem in which Emery had represented the government.

Mr. Wells has published a paper-bound book entitled "Zero Hour for Arkansas" containing reproductions of documents of Commonwealth College, citations from editorials from the Arkansas Gazette and other papers which supported Faubus or achieved the same effect by belittling his opponent and the significance of his experience at Commonwealth. Wells also prepared intricate tables of registration and election returns showing that the ballots cast in some jurisdictions far outnumbered the registration. He is now engaged in enlarging his text with astonishing material further proving the weird commingling of the power of tax-exempt foundations, stately, old-line newspapers and politicians who range all the way from Communists to blatherskite adventurers.

THE TEST OF LIVING

Not long back an American playwright wrote a play in which half a dozen middle-aged people, gathered together more or less accidentally, found themselves taking stock of their lives up to that time.

All of them realized with something of a shock that they had not accomplished much, that fame and greatness had eluded them, that their lives were empty of "big moments."

Finally, one man says, with a sad perception of a blunt truth:

"There ARE no big moments unless you have a pile of small moments to build upon."

What he meant was that for most of us achievement follows only upon painstaking preparation. Greatness is seldom a thing of quick, flashing inspiration, except in some kinds of artistic endeavor.

The man who goes through life pursuing the "big moment" may exhaust himself in the chase if he does not understand that the laborious building up of small moments is the only sure course. Without this, he will look back at 50 upon a life that seems a barren wasteland.

For many of us, no doubt, there can never be anything but small moments. We can pile them up, but we cannot erect a bigger edifice upon them.

This should not move us to deep regret. The big moments, and the great men, are few. The test of living is the ability to make the most of the small moments, to push life to the farthest horizons permitted by one's limitations.

As there are no great moments without a base of smaller ones, so there are no great men without the vast accumulated accomplishments and experience of smaller ones to draw upon.

We are all part of the long bridge of time, of human history. Without our massive total outpouring of effort, there would be no nation, no civilization, nothing from which greatness could spring.

No one who builds good character in himself, who lovingly tends the growth and security of his family, who devotes full energies to his work and his pleasure, ought ever to fear that his life will seem a desert.

If he does all these things, even though greatness may never touch him he will make a great contribution to the world he lives in. He will be just one stone in the long bridge, looking very much like the one alongside.

But without that stone, and the next, and the next, the endless span would crumble and there would be no support for human life on this planet. Every single stone has its place.

At last Russia is willing to cooperate in a great international undertaking. This is a worldwide effort to study the physics of the earth, its atmosphere and the space outside. It is planned in 1957-58 to make simultaneous observations all over the world about these phenomena, and Russia has agreed to let its scientists join and give out their findings.

People love to worry. When the stock market was down, they were unhappy. Now that it's up to its best level in history, they're worried again. The trouble with worry is that while a fellow is engaged in worry he can't be making or laying up a nickel.

Just about the time the pressure of the holidays is about to drive one to despair, the grandchildren or others of the youthful set have a mysterious ability to make it all worth while.

In seeking the best, try first to get it out of yourself, rather than trying to get the best of the other fellow.

Even the best of family budgets is bound to be squeezed if the neighbors keep doing things that others can't afford.

And then there was the editorial writer who not only wrote, but dined on, barbecued beefs.

'These Days'

WORLD LEADERSHIP

Last Summer, "The Manchester Guardian" said:

"Only the United States can lead the Western world, and it is no longer doing so. Only the United States has (or had) the resources, vigour, and idealism for the task. Its leadership is failing for two reasons—weakness within the Administration, and an honest divergence of view between America and the other Western nations. . . ."

The essential fault in their logic is that the question is not asked whether the American people are anxious or desirous or even willing to assume for a protracted historic period the responsibilities and obligations of world leadership. While it may be true that some political leaders and a few publishers of and writers for newspapers and magazines are all excited about the United States leading the Western world, by and large the American citizen finds that his country has been worked into a position that brings to him only high taxes, a high cost of living, a depreciated currency and the constant probability of war. He does not like it. He is tired of war. He is tired of the constant talk of war and Communism and Russia. He wants to return to the simplicities of American living.

World leadership realistically can be handled only by a country that wants something concrete, such as colonial territory, additional population, guaranteed sources of foodstuffs and raw materials, controlled markets, etc. The United States wants nothing but peace and the American mind has never become adjusted to the politics of war. Perhaps that is why our intelligence services have never matured and why we are so often surprised by the course of events, as apparently our government was when Mendes-France got a bad vote on the German question.

The American prefers to do his business forthright and direct and when he tries to be devious, as he needs to be in world leadership, he often becomes ludicrous. He finds it difficult to weigh traditional hatreds against the necessities of finding a way to peace. It is the ingenue playing the heavy.

"The Manchester Guardian" does discover a little of American public opinion when it says:

". . . The United States—both its Government and apparently most of its people—believes that negotiation with the Communists is a dangerous waste of time. This view is shared by no other major Government in the West. . . ."

It does not matter that that view is shared by no other Government in the West; it is enough for most Americans to recognize that we were gypped at Teheran, Yalta, Potsdam, Geneva and Panmunjom and that an agreement with the Russians may be violated even while it is being negotiated. To use the vulgar language of trade, the Russians have no line of credit in this country and nobody can establish such a line but the Russians themselves. As popular as President Eisenhower is, most Americans would distrust the results of his attending a Four Power Conference.

This is particularly true as one of the objectives of such a Conference would have to be to find a way to placate Soviet Russia and Red China by a seat in the United Nations. The formula is already available, namely, that two Chinas are to be recognized, Red China and something that the Western nations like to call the Republic of Formosa which does not exist and cannot exist without violating the sentiments of every Chinese on Formosa, on the mainland and overseas. Whoever is the author of such a formula certainly does not know Chinese history or understand the nature of the Chinese people.

How can a President of the United States meet with Malenkov on such a question? As things are today, the suspicion would be—and as of this moment, I believe it would be an unfair suspicion—that the British have again succeeded in getting the Americans to do something detrimental to American interests. Surely, it would not enhance Eisenhower's political stature and it would give the Conservative Republicans an opportunity to attack him on the floor of the Senate on an issue rather than on personal and political differences.

There would be little jealousy in the United States if the British took back their title to world leadership. We would congratulate them and wish that they wear that robe in good health.

That Body of Yours

TEACHING THE OUT-PATIENT

Our hospitals have become so overcrowded in late years that physicians have been looking about not only for more accommodation but also to try to help more patients on an outpatient basis. Also, recent developments in fighting infections have reduced the need for bed care in treating illness and have thus increased the number of patients who are up and about and yet still require attention.

"For the past two years a new system of caring for the ambulatory (up and about) patient and for teaching medical students in the outpatient department has been in effect at the University of Oklahoma Hospitals. The outpatient department has often been a crowded accessory that has been adapted neither to the comfort and welfare of the patient nor to the effective teaching of the students."

Traditionally, the emphasis in teaching internal medicine has been on the bed patient but now that there are so many outpatients, physicians and students are being brought more into contact with the patient in his day-to-day environment and are beginning to realize that the problems a patient has to meet in his daily life outside the hospital may have a very powerful effect on his disease. This has brought about a more comprehensive point-of-view of the patient and his background.

Before this new program was begun, there was little opportunity for the student to become really familiar with a patient. Much of his time was spent with thick charts of patients with whom he was not familiar. After a brief glimpse, the student often shifted the patient to another clinic so that there was little opportunity of instilling in the student a sense of continuing responsibility for his patient.

Under this new method, every patient over 14 years of age is assigned first to the medical clinic where a careful general examination is made by a fourth year student under his instructor's supervision. This patient then becomes that student's responsibility. If referral to another clinic is considered necessary, the student arranges for the patient to come on a day when he too will be there and will present the case to the consultant in charge of the clinic. Many medical specialty clinics were eliminated and instead these specialists were assigned to the medical clinic so that an expert in each field was available at nearly every clinic session.

What are some of the results of this changed attitude toward specialty clinics? For one thing, the number of referrals to other clinics was cut down by as much as 70 per cent because referring a patient to another clinic merely meant referring him to yourself in another clinic. This meant less crowding, less waiting on benches and in lines, and less duplication of effort. There was immediately less congestion in the outpatient department as a whole. Anyone who has had to attend the outpatient department of a large hospital will realize what a great step forward this could be to the general public.

The Fliers' Lives Are Not All That's at Stake

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Clarence B. Randall, chairman of the board of Inland Steel has been having a tough time trying to put over President Eisenhower's foreign trade program. But at last he seems to be making progress.

Since bringing out the report of the Randall Commission of 17 Congressmen and business leaders last January, Mr. Randall has been working half-time as a White House consultant. He has reviewed the program to see if there were bugs in it. And he has listened and talked to anyone interested in this subject of tariffs and foreign trade, seizing every opportunity to urge adoption of the program by Congress in 1955.

ONE OF HIS prize speeches on this subject was made before the big and powerful National Manufacturers Assn., in New York. This group, as conservative as any business organization in the country, is split right down the middle on whether the reciprocal trade agreements program should be extended.

Companies with a big export business are for it. Companies who have to compete with imports from abroad are dead against it. NAM is so divided on this subject that it refuses to take any policy stand of its own on the question.

In spite of this, Mr. Randall bearded the lions in their Waldorf-Astoria banquet room den, and tired to tell them the facts of foreign economic life, according to modern gospel.

AS HE WAS COMING down in the elevator next morning, a couple whom he didn't know recognized him and smiled. The man spoke to Mr. Randall and said: "Come here, brother, and shake hands. Gad, how I loathed every word you said last night. But you converted my wife."

This simple statement revealed one of the most striking developments in this perennial, national debate. The women's organizations seem to be all for expanding foreign trade. It's the men who are divided.

The major farm groups—Grange and Farm Bureau—are for it. Farmers' Union, made up of smaller farmers, is opposed.

THE NATIONAL LABOR union organizations are for it—American Federation of Labor and CIO. David J. McDonald, head of the Steelworkers union, who has battled Mr. Randall on many a labor contract, was a public member of the Randall Commission and voted right along with the chairman on practically every issue.

But many local unions of ceramics, textile and other industries which must compete with imports, will line up with their bosses against the program when Senate Finance and House Ways and Means Committees begin hearings on legislation to carry out the Randall Commission program.

The chances for passage of a three-year extension of the trade program with supplementary legislation look a lot better than they did a year ago. In the last Congress, a one-year extension was the most that could be secured.

Assurances have been given that there will be no "end run" by Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, carrying the ball, behind high-tariff business interference.

Nevertheless, the battle over passage will be bitter. Just how bitter it will be is perhaps best indicated by the experience of Mr. Randall's own Inland Steel Co. One of its customers recently cancelled a $20,000 order because of the prominent part the chairman has played in this work.

A boycott was then organized in an attempt to make its suppliers take Inland off their trade list.

That shows how high the stakes are, and how the game is being played for the prize in this most controversial issue.

Although the evidence is inconclusive, many students believe the horse was domesticated in the Bronze age.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Jan. 4, 1935—Augustus Bunse was elected president of Rapid Hose Company.

Dr. Frederick A. Huhne, former member of the local health board, died at his Hone street home.

Temperatures close to zero were reported in the area.

Mrs. Louis B. VanGaasbeek, one of the older members of the First Dutch Reformed Church, died.

Jan. 4, 1945—Fire, believed of incendiary origin, damaged a two-family house on Tompkins street.

Joseph Epstein, Kingston Democrat, was elected president of the Ulster County Board of Elections.

Loss by fire, which damaged two barns on the Joseph Brill dairy farm near Stone Ridge Dec. 3, was estimated at $12,000.

Nelson G. Cochrane, of Pine street, who for 42 years was freight and passenger agent at the O & W station, retired after a total of 52 years of railroading.

FEPC Inclusion Seen as Necessary in President's Legislative Program

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 4 — There's one item thus far omitted from President Eisenhower's proposed legislative program, and that's a recommendation for the enactment of a fair employment practices commission.

Unless included, it may render meaningless the label 'moderate progressive" by which the White House describes its philosophical position nowadays.

For the "FEPC," which has been blocked in Congress by a filibuster of Southern Democrats, becomes a logical measure at least for consideration now that the Supreme Court of the United States has decreed that there can be no racial discrimination in the schools.

The House of Representatives and the Senate both have been known to have majorities ready to pass the legislation. But the difficulty has been to get the measure to a vote in the Senate because of filibustering. Now, however, that "legislative obstruction" has been declared to be an offense against ethics and is held to bring the dignity of the Senate into disrepute, there can hardly be any filibustering without stultifying the 67 Senators who voted to condemn Senator McCarthy for "legislative obstruction." This number is more than two-thirds of the Senate — enough to alter the rules and cut off unlimited debate.

President Eisenhower is on record as having congratulated Senator Watkins for leading a successful fight against the Wisconsin Senator, and it doesn't seem plausible that Mr. Eisenhower would refrain from asserting his leadership if a measure as important to the progressive cause as is the "FEPC" should require his help.

It is true the President for a long time took the position that the rules of the Senate were the Senate's problem, but he modified this under pressure from his followers and certainly he has a constitutional right to recommend the adoption of legislation covering racial or religious discrimination in employment.

The whole program was an issue in the 1952 campaign and Mr. Eisenhower won wide support in the South because of his emphasis on states' rights. His position was interpreted as meaning that he would not favor federal legislation on the subject. Since that time, however, the President's own Attorney General appeared before the Supreme Court and pleaded with the court to denounce state laws which permitted racial segregation in the schools. The Supreme Court accepted the plea by a unanimous decision. From that time on, Mr. Eisenhower, in effect, has been committed to federal enforcement of all constitutional rights relating to discrimination.

Up to now, the Eisenhower administration has dealt with the issue of discrimination in employment by indirection. An executive order has been issued which stipulates that government contracts, whether for defense work or anything else, shall not be awarded—irrespective of the bids—to any contractor who permits discrimination because of race, religion or national origin.

But there is really no sound basis in existing law for such an order. Besides, it applies only to those who accept contracts for work with the government. If the principle is sound for government contractors, it is argued now that the same prohibition should be written into law so as to apply to all employers.

The argument for state handling of the matter has considerable support in Congress, because New York state, with a commission and a law that does not prescribe penalties but depends primarily on public opinion, has been operating successfully. It is believed nevertheless that a bill based on the voluntary principle, such as the House of Representatives passed on February 23, 1950, by a vote of 240 to 177, would be passed again by the House.

The question now is what the southern Democrats in the Senate would do about it. Mr. Eisenhower, of course, as the leader of a coalition of "left wing" Republicans and "left wing" Democrats in both Houses, has an opportunity to champion the measure and possibly secure its adoption in the Senate.

It will be interesting to see whether the northern Democrats who led the fight for "civil rights" in the 1952 national Democratic convention are going to surrender to the "right wing" of their party and ignore one of the most important planks espoused by present-day "liberals." There has been a strange silence on the subject thus far, and one wonders if, merely for reasons of political expediency—something which true liberals usually abhor—any proposals for a fair employment practices commission will be killed in the new Congress.

Judge Reserves Decision in Case

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Federal Judge Archie O. Dawson reserved decision on a petition by the National Labor Relations Board for an injunction to restrain members of Local 50, Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union of America, AFL, from picketing Arnold Bakers, Inc., in Port Chester.

Arnold Bakers, of 10 Traverse avenue, have dealings with a union titled the Arnold Bakers Employes Assn., independent, collective bargaining agent for its employes.

Local 50 sought to become the employes' bargaining agent but was unsuccessful when the Arnold employes chose the Arnold Association as their bargaining agent in an election conducted by the NLRB last November.

SINCE LAST NOV. 26, Local 50 has maintained two pickets before the Arnold plant bearing placards urging the public not to buy Arnold products, according to Samuel Kaynard, NLRB attorney, who said that was a violation of labor law.

"It would appear to be more an appeal to the public, but it could possibly be interpreted as a technique to compel the company to bargain with the local," Kaynard said.

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—A bus driver snatched four men from a wrecked auto at the Bronx end of the Third avenue bridge early today, seconds before the car burst into flames.

When police arrived, the driver got back into his bus without giving his name and drove off. He was later identified as David Leavy, of 109 E. 175th St., the Bronx.

Heart Association Has 7 Resolutions To Prolong Life

Seven New Year's resolutions were suggested today by the American Heart Association for those who seek to protect their hearts and to live longer and happier lives. The association recommended that all New Year's lists be headed by statements of intentions to:

1. Avoid self-diagnosis.

"If you haven't had a health and heart examination during the past year, see your doctor soon," advised the association. If your heart is sound and if treatment is not indicated, needless fear and anxiety can be eliminated. If a heart ailment is revealed, suitable treatment can be begun immediately.

2. Avoid over-exertion.

"EXERCISE in moderation, particularly if you are over 40 years old," the association suggested. "Strenuous activity will not harm a healthy heart. But the threat is real when the heart is diseased; then, extra effort may prove dangerous."

3. Avoid over-fatigue.

"Your Heart Association believes you should get an amount of sleep you know you require. Your heart works for you around the clock every day of your life. When you rest or sleep, its work load is lightened.

4. Avoid over-weight.

"Excess weight loads extra work onto your heart and blood vessels," it was stated. "You will look, feel and work better—and you are likely to live longer—if you keep your weight close to normal."

5. Treat respiratory infections promptly.

"THE COLD weather months on the average brings about a 13 per cent increase in deaths from heart and circulatory disease," reported the association. "This increase is largely the result of the prevalence of pneumonia, bronchitis and other illnesses which often impose a heavier-than-usual strain on the heart and circulatory system during this period. Don't take winter infections lightly; seek prompt and adequate treatment for them."

6. Avoid worry.

"Don't burden your heart with needless worry. Worrying cures or prevents nothing. So don't be guided by oldwives tales, fallacies and superstitions. Know the facts about heart disease and your own heart. For information about the heart and its diseases, ask your Heart Association. For advice about your heart, always see your doctor."

7. Support your Heart Association.

"With diseases of the heart and circulation responsible for nearly 800,000 deaths yearly, or about 52 per cent of all deaths, Heart Association's crusade against these diseases needs the support of every man, woman and child in America. The annual Heart Fund campaign will be held throughout February. Resolve now to 'Help Your Heart Fund — Help Your Heart.'"

Judge Reserves Decision in Case

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Federal Judge Archie O. Dawson reserved decision on a petition by the National Labor Relations Board for an injunction to restrain members of Local 50, Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union of America, AFL, from picketing Arnold Bakers, Inc., in Port Chester.

Arnold Bakers, of 10 Traverse avenue, have dealings with a union titled the Arnold Bakers Employes Assn., independent, collective bargaining agent for its employes.

Local 50 sought to become the employes' bargaining agent but was unsuccessful when the Arnold employes chose the Arnold Association as their bargaining agent in an election conducted by the NLRB last November.

SINCE LAST NOV. 26, Local 50 has maintained two pickets before the Arnold plant bearing placards urging the public not to buy Arnold products, according to Samuel Kaynard, NLRB attorney, who said that was a violation of labor law.

"It would appear to be more an appeal to the public, but it could possibly be interpreted as a technique to compel the company to bargain with the local," Kaynard said.

A regular meeting of the Civil Air Patrol, cadets and seniors, will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the New York State Armory.

All those who have made applications are reminded that Flights A and B will close as of this meeting, according to Lt. Delanoy, commandant of cadets. Any who do not have properly executed applications at that time will be assigned to the next flight.

Sidney Lane, squadron commander, emphasizes that Civil Air Patrol is purely a volunteer organization, and that any member is free to resign at any time. Although the CAP is an auxiliary of the Air Force, there is no compulsion attached to joining this group, and no special term of enlistment must be served.

All cadets are urged by the squadron commander, to participate in all scheduled activities and programs to further their training, and to receive maximum benefits.

EXCHANGING PRESENTS

The following letter is typical of many received in my post-Christmas mail: "What can be done with Christmas presents from people either living in our town or living at a distance that are useless to us either because they are the wrong size or completely unsuited to our needs. May they be exchanged without offending the givers?"

To exchange a present merely for its duplicate in another size is of course not "changing" it at all, and is entirely permissible. Even when you don't know the name of the store from which the present came, it is very simple to write frankly: "Your lovely present is just what I want, but my size is (whatever it is). Is it from somewhere near you and would it be easy to change it for me, or will you tell me where it came from so that I can do so?"

When you receive presents that are entirely unsuited to you, what you do about them depends upon several things. If the giver is one of those members of your family (or of your circle of friends) who has no sentiment whatever and prefers you to exchange what you can't use for something you can, the answer is very simple. But if the giver is one of those who are deeply hurt if they discover that their present is not in use, you have no choice but to make the best use of it you possibly can.

Omitting Titles

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married shortly and would like to know how the place cards at my wedding reception should read. That is, is it necessary to use titles before the names, or in the case of relatives, could they read "Aunt Hattie," "Uncle Bill," Cousin Susie," etc.

Answer: If your reception will be a small one with only closest relatives present, the use of "Aunt Hattie," "Uncle Bill," etc., would not only be correct but very friendly.

First or Last Initial?

Dear Mrs. Post: When buying initialed handkerchiefs, or a tie, for a man, should the initial of his first name or his last name be chosen?

Answer: The initial of his last name is correct.

Is it from somewhere near you and would it be easy to change it for me, or will you tell me where it came from so that I can do so?"

When you receive presents that are entirely unsuited to you, what you do about them depends upon several things. If the giver is one of those members of your family (or of your circle of friends) who has no sentiment whatever and prefers you to exchange what you can't use for something you can, the answer is very simple. But if the giver is one of those who are deeply hurt if they discover that their present is not in use, you have no choice but to make the best use of it you possibly can.

Omitting Titles

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married shortly and would like to know how the place cards at my wedding reception should read. That is, is it necessary to use titles before the names, or in the case of relatives, could they read "Aunt Hattie," "Uncle Bill," Cousin Susie," etc.

Answer: If your reception will be a small one with only closest relatives present, the use of "Aunt Hattie," "Uncle Bill," etc., would not only be correct but very friendly.

First or Last Initial?

Dear Mrs. Post: When buying initialed handkerchiefs, or a tie, for a man, should the initial of his first name or his last name be chosen?

Answer: The initial of his last name is correct.

High School Resumes DUSO Slate Friday Against Newburgh

Field House Test Vital to Maroons' Pennant Chances

Kerhonkson, Saugerties Undefeated in UCAL

Only three area interscholastic basketball teams survived the pre-holiday phase of the 1954-55 schedule with untarnished records.

The heavy firing resumes Friday night in the DUSO and Ulster County Athletic League, with only Newburgh in the DUSO (2-0) and Kerhonkson (4-0) and Saugerties (2-0) in the UCAL unsullied and unchallenged as the major part of the schedule starts to unfold.

NEWBURGH'S DREAM of an undefeated season is likely to be shattered on the glistening boards at the Kate Walton field house Friday when a rebounding Kingston High squad is ready and waiting.

Until the Maroons were upended by highly regarded Monticello in their last start, they had kept pace with the breezy Goldbacks with three straight victories. The Kiasmen launched the season with a 65-45 rout of Catskill, then whipped Port Jervis 81-47 and won a vital 76-63 decision at Poughkeepsie.

THE LOSS AT Monticello coming on the heels of the brilliant victory at Poughkeepsie astounded the Kingston camp.

Newburgh led off with a 62-54 triumph at Poughkeepsie, nailing down the victory in the last three minutes. Then followed a routine 75-47 victory over a Middletown squad that has failed to flash expected form.

Coach Kias and his charges are well aware of the implications of a Goldback victory. Should Kingston drop this one they would face an almost insurmountable task trying to overhaul the Goldbacks.

COACH CHICK MEEHAN'S surprising Kerhonkson basketeers marched through their first four UCAL assignments in impressive fashion. But real trouble could confront them Friday night at Highland. The Highlanders split four decisions down the middle but are tough on their home court.

Saugerties High, still the No. 1 choice to win the pennant, entertains New Paltz (1-2) on the Sawyer boards and should nail down its third straight.

WALLKILL CENTRAL visits Marlboro Central in the other UCAL skirmish.

Macauley First In NBA Scoring

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Easy Ed Macauley of the high-scoring Boston Celtics—one of 20 players selected for the National Basketball Association's all-star game—also is the loop's top scorer today, having wrested the lead from teammate Bob Cousy.

Macauley poured in 94 points in four games last week to bring his total to 609 in 30 games, a 20.3 average. Cousy, a unanimous all-star choice, is in second place, one point behind, but leads in assists with 244 in 30 games.

Dolph Schayes, another unanimous all-star selection, of the Syracuse Nationals, is in third place with 603 points followed by rookie Frank Selvy of the Milwaukee Hawks with 592.

Kentucky Rates No. 1

(By The Associated Press)

For the third straight week, the undefeated Kentucky Wildcats ranked today as the nation's No. 1 team in the weekly Associated Press basketball poll and from all indications they're going to be mighty hard to dislodge.

Of the 116 ballots cast by sports writers and sportscasters throughout the country, 89 named Kentucky as the top team. The Wildcats received 1,090 points and finished more than 200 points ahead of runner-up Duquesne in the voting.

THE STREAKING Wildcats have won seven in a row this season after posting a 25-0 record during the 1953-54 campaign. The defending Southeastern Conference champions also go after their 130th straight home court victory Saturday night when they play host to Georgia Tech in their only game this week.

The top 10, with first place votes and season records (through Sunday's games) in parentheses (points on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis):

1.	Kentucky (7-9) (89)	1,090
2.	Duquesne (8-1) (14)	869
3.	North Carolina State (12-1) (3)	679
4.	La Salle (9-3) (2)	630
5.	San Francisco (8-1) (4)	515
6.	George Washington (8-1)	338
7.	UCLA (9-2) (1)	276
8.	Utah (7-2)	269
9.	Missouri (7-2) (2)	262
10.	Dayton (8-2)	175

Turner, Klein Score Upsets In Monday Bouts

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Gil Turner and Joey Klein, a pair of underdogs, have started the new year right. Turner won a unanimous decision over Italo Scortichini last night at St. Nicholas Arena and Klein stopped Gerry Dreyer on a seventh round TKO at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway.

Turner's victory was more important than Klein's because the once high-ranking welterweight showed signs of making a comeback. Packing 154 pounds to Scortichini's 154¾, Turner didn't fold in the late rounds as he has been doing lately. Instead he cut loose with some of his old style Turner machine gun bursts in the eighth and ninth of a rousing battle.

REFEREE JACK Watson gave Turner, a 13 to 5 underdog, a 5-3-2 edge. Judge Artie Aidala had it 8-2 and Judge Bert Grant 6-4 for a clean sweep. The AP card was 6-3-1 for Turner. Most of the 1,388 paying $2,070 thought Turner won but by closer than 8-2.

George Katz, Turner's manager, said he would give the Philadelphia Negro a rest until early February. He was cut around both eyes but required no stitching.

Scortichini was bruised but unhurt. His next is a Miami date, Jan. 15 with Joe Miceli.

OVER IN BROOKLYN, loser Dreyer is the one who is getting a rest.

"His mind is not on fights," said Manager Willie Ketchum. "All he talks about is home, home, home." (Praetoria, South Africa).

Klein, a New Yorker, slashed cuts over both eyes of Dreyer, the 11 to 5 favorite, and rocked the former British Empire welter champ just before the bell in the seventh.

Referee Mark Conn stopped the one sided battle after the bell ended the seventh. Each weighed 150½ pounds.

Unknown Paces Los Angeles Open

Los Angeles, Jan. 4 (AP)—A comparative unknown on the winter golf trail captured qualifying honors in the 29th Los Angeles Open at Inglewood Country Club yesterday.

Don Fairfield, 25-year-old Casey, Ill., pro recently discharged from the Air Force, shot a 66, five under par, to shade Larry Douchey in Inglewood, former Canadian Amateur champ, who came in with 68.

Babe Lazane, Bakersfield, Calif., finished third with 69.

Fights Last Night

By The Associated Press

New York — Gil Turner, 154, Philadelphia, outpointed Italo Scortichini, 154¾, Italy, 10.

Brooklyn — Joey Klein, 150½, New York, stopped Gerry Dreyer, 150½, South Africa, 7.

Students have attributed some reports of fish and frogs falling with rain to waterspouts which may have sucked up the animals.

Record-Wrecker Kluzsewski Thinks 60 Homers Possible

Cincinnati (NEA)—Ted Kluszewski, who has gripped the interest of Cincinnati baseball fans tighter than anybody since Paul Derringer and Bucky Walters rode high 15 years ago, isn't letting people go without some mid-winter interest.

A check of Kluszewski's 1954 record shows the big-armed thumper put 49 balls out of play. This leads to the inevitable: "Is this the guy to top Babe Ruth's record?"

"Hit 60? I'd like to hit 61," the strong boy says.

THEN HE REPEATS the creed all long ball hitters in chase of the Babe's fabulous 60 have to know by heart.

"The earlier part of the season. That's when you have to be strong," he says. "Ruth hit 17 in September. No man is going to do that. You've got to be getting yours a lot earlier than that."

Kluszewski believes it's possible.

"But I'm going to have to do something about a couple of pitchers. Harvey Haddix of the Cards and Curt Simmons and Robin Roberts of the Phillies—they murder me. They get you on control. The parks they're in don't help either.

"In St. Louis—at Busch Stadium — the right field wall is short, but it's high. I hit line drives off it a lot. The same at Shibe Park in Philadelphia. If I get a little more lift on my hits in those two places I'd be better off."

IF BIG TED IS EVER going to do it, this should be the year. A solidly experienced player at 30, he is getting ready for his seventh full season as a regular. After hitting only 13 home runs in 1951 and 16 the next season, Big Klu found the range with 40 in 1953. Last season he solidified himself as a genuine long ball menace.

Only Willie Mays and Kluzsewski figure, as of now, to have any sort of a chance to hit anywhere near the 60 figure. Cincinnati fans think 1955 is the time for Kluszewski to do it.

Last season he broke every Cincinnati club mark worth talking about as he batted .326 and drove in 141 runs and hit his 49 homers—most in the majors.

In 1955, Klu might crack a few more, including the 60 mark.

MANY BASEBALL people were beginning to talk that way last August, when he belted 13 out of the park. After a night game at the Polo Grounds—in which Ted drove a 400-footer into the seats—Garry Schumacher of the Giants' front office settled into a cab and mulled over the hit.

"If anybody's gonna hit 60, this is the guy to do it," he observed. "Him and Mays. But this guy is looking for the long ones and he might get there first—that is, if anybody is ever gonna get there. He's the closest thing to Lou Gehrig to come along."

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

Abe Saperstein, founder, owner, manager and coach of the famulous Harlem Globetrotters, who played here Sunday night, is a little rotund fellow who could walk under the arms of any of his players.

Nearly 30 years ago he took a game that wasn't too well known in his own country and made it an international by-word in sports. In the process of making basketball the national game in many countries he has earned the reputation of being the greatest sports promoter of all time.

AND TO WHAT DOES Saperstein attribute the phenomenal success of his Globetrotters? "To pantomime," he says. "The basketball playing rules are simple but beyond that the action of the stars are understood without words in any language."

It was this pantomime that made people smile and feel happy here Sunday. And it's getting to be quite a rare thing for professional sports in Kingston.

Watching the greatest sports show on earth proved another thing to the 1800 customers. That radio and TV notwithstanding, there is nothing like seeing great performers in person.

MR. REECE TATUM, known as Goose to the trade, an aging veteran who can't have too many years left, is Mr. Globetrotter and his pantomime, mimicry and artistry as a buffoon are a rewarding spectacle. Tatum is to basketball what Buster Kenny once was to baseball.

The Trotters play 340 games a year and have appeared in 44 countries. They get a two-weeks break once a year, "one week's vacation and one week of practice." They carry an entourage of 50 persons and four brilliant acts of entertainment. Their bus is furnished with sleepers and they carry their own full time referee, the immortal Pat Kennedy.

KENNEDY, WHO WORKED MANY games in Kingston with the old American League, is the best known arbiter in the history of the game. He quit as National Basketball Association supervisor a few years ago to take a full time job with the Trotters. It's a lucrative assignment and he and The Goose have developed a clever act. Kennedy also insures the Trotters of a game that has some semblance of sanity. The basketball purists have to turn their heads of some of the things Tantum does, of course, but a Globetrotter official told us that few home town referees can keep up with the Goose.

Sunday night the Trotters hustled back to Albany for a meal and then boarded a 2:25 a. m. sleeper to Chicago where last night they played before the usual 18,000-plus crowd. The drawing power of the Trotters is unparalleled in basketball history. In March of 1954 they played to a combined audience of 37,214 for an afternoon-night doubleheader at Madison Square Garden. A month later (April 5) at Chicago they drew 36,029 for the same setup.

WHILE THE GLOBETROTTERS are a solid basketball aggregation, their chief selling point is Goose Tatum and hippodrome stuff. They are able to beat the College All Stars in their annual series, but even Abe Saperstein would be the first to admit that any of the NBA teams could handle the Trotters in a show-down series.

Saperstein doesn't hesitate to admit "the greatest player I've ever seen was George Mikan of the Minneapolis Lakers and nobody ever came close to him. . . ."

But the Trotters have Goose Tatum who is the all-time great in his own field and the highest paid player in the history of the game. The Trotters amused a lot of people here and made them all laugh. It was a rare sight in a building that once rocked to great professional sports promotions. It made you think how wonderful it would be to return to those days. But that was only wishful thinking, of course.

Buried Cannon Found

Philadelphia (AP) — City workmen have dug up an old iron cannon dating back to the Revolutionary War in a downtown street. Its breach had been blown off. Two cannon balls, each weighing 6½ pounds were found wedged inside. The cannon is one of 18 such relics of the past found recently in the city. They had been imbedded in the ground, with only their tops sticking up, apparently to shield buildings from wagon and carriage wheels. Some of these may be used as decorative pieces in the Independence Mall project. Others may be placed on display in other sections of the country if their historical background fits the surroundings, according to Warren A. McCullough, administrative assistant to the superintendent of the Independence National Historical Park projects.

Tickets to Jail

Miami, Fla. (AP) — No burglar ever left an easier trail than the one who raided the home of Edward A. Portz. The loot was $400 worth of jewelry—and two tickets to a sports event. Deputies did the obvious thing: they went to the game. In the seats Portz had purchased they found the burglar and a friend.

The origin of meteorites is still controversial. Generally, they are believed to be lumps from an exploded planet or perhaps two that collided.

Tommy Bell NFA Speaker

All-America Tommy Bell of West Point will be one of the guest speakers at Newburgh Academy's annual football dinner Saturday at the Hotel Newburgh.

Wesley "Bo" Gill, chairman of arrangements, said today two other prominent sports personalities would attend. Other guests include members of the 1954 All-DUSO football team; athletic directors and coaches of the DUSO football schools.

The All-DUSO players and members of the NFA squad will receive awards. The dinner is open to the public. Tickets may be reserved through the Freeman sports department.

Geoffrion Leads NHL

Montreal, Jan. 4 (AP)—Hard-shooting, (Boom Boom) Geoffrion the league-leading Montreal Canadiens, seeking his first scoring title, continues to head the National Hockey League individual scoring race today.

The 24-year-old forward slumped a bit last week with only two goals and two assists, but he has a two-point lead over his teammate Jean Beliveau.

Geoffrion has registered 24 goals, tops in the league, and 18 asists for 42 points, compared with Beliveau's 18 tallies and 22 assists for 40 points.

Teammates Maurice (The Rocket) Richard and Kenny Mosdell of the high-flying Frenchmen are in third and fourth spots with 38 and 34 points respectively.

Offer for Saxton

Boston, Jan. 4 (AP)—Johnny Saxton, world welterweight champion, has been offered a $65,000 guarantee to meet Boston's Tony DeMarco in defense of his boxing crown. Sam Silverman, promoter for the Callahan A.C., yesterday said he had made the offer for a Feb. 2 date at Boston Garden.

Schlundt Is the Key

Hoosiers Upset Michigan, 95-77

That man Don Schlundt still knows the direction of the basket and as long as he doesn't lose his bearnings, Indiana will remain a force to be reckoned with in the Big Ten.

The experts counted the Hoosiers out of the race before the start of the season, but it appeared today that their unimpressive 2-5 pre-conference record may have been a mighty hoax.

Schlundt scored 30 joints last night as Indiana began its campaign for a third straight conference title with a 95-77 triumph over favored Michigan.

BUT IOWA, the heir-apparent to the title, also looked powerful in its league opener, polishing off Wisconsin, 86-69. This one was significant because the Badgers had beaten Illinois, one of the teams regarded as being capable of giving Iowa a tussle.

But it never really was close. Iowa took the lead just before the half and never was headed. Dick Cable of Wisconsin was high scorer with 25 points.

In other Big Ten games, Robin Freeman, the leading scorer of the nation at the moment, dropped in 39 points to lead Ohio State to an 83-86 victory over Michigan State and Northwestern came from behind to edge Minnesota 74-72.

NOTRE DAME, which had a strong bid in for the top independent of the country, came a cropper at the hands of Louisville. The Cardinals had to come from behind a 53-45 deficit with 14 minutes to go to lick the Sugar Bowl chtampions 73-69.

DON SCHLUNDT

Purdue became the first team ever to score as many as 100 points against Bradley when the Big Ten outfit whipped the Braves, 109-92, while Tulane broke a school scoring record by routing club Deportivo Mexicanos (Mexican Sports Club) 107-55.

Seton Hall, beaten only once, recorded its ninth victory by trampling Colby 83-63. Florida got the jump in the Southeastern Conference race with an 81-68 trmiumph over Georgia, and Temple crushed Richmond 80-71.

DUQUESNE, the second ranking team in the country in the Associated Press weekly poll, took a 60-56 decision from Fort Belvoir.

The Big Seven and Southwest Conferences swing into action tonight. Missouri, possibly the strongest outfit in the Big Seven, tackles Kansas, an old nemesis. Texas Christian, the Southwest Conference choice, tangles with Arkansas.

High School Resumes DUSO Slate Friday Against Newburgh

Kerhonkson, Saugerties Undefeated in UCAL

Only three area interscholastic basketball teams survived the pre-holiday phase of the 1954-55 schedule with untarnished records.

The heavy firing resumes Friday night in the DUSO and Ulster County Athletic League, with only Newburgh in the DUSO (2-0) and Kerhonkson (4-0) and Saugerties (2-0) in the UCAL unsullied and unchallenged as the major part of the schedule starts to unfold.

NEWBURGH'S DREAM of an undefeated season is likely to be shattered on the glistening boards at the Kate Walton field house Friday when a rebounding Kingston High squad is ready and waiting.

Until the Maroons were upended by highly regarded Monticello in their last start, they had kept pace with the breezy Goldbacks with three straight victories. The Kiasmen launched the season with a 65-45 rout of Catskill, then whipped Port Jervis 81-47 and won a vital 76-63 decision at Poughkeepsie.

THE LOSS AT Monticello coming on the heels of the brilliant victory at Poughkeepsie astounded the Kingston camp.

Newburgh led off with a 62-54 triumph at Poughkeepsie, nailing down the victory in the last three minutes. Then followed a routine 75-47 victory over a Middletown squad that has failed to flash expected form.

Coach Kias and his charges are well aware of the implications of a Goldback victory. Should Kingston drop this one they would face an almost insurmountable task trying to overhaul the Goldbacks.

COACH CHICK MEEHAN'S surprising Kerhonkson basketeers marched through their first four UCAL assignments in impressive fashion. But real trouble could confront them Friday night at Highland. The Highlanders split four decisions down the middle but are tough on their home court.

Saugerties High, still the No. 1 choice to win the pennant, entertains New Paltz (1-2) on the Sawyer boards and should nail down its third straight.

WALLKILL CENTRAL visits Marlboro Central in the other UCAL skirmish.

Macauley First In NBA Scoring

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Easy Ed Macauley of the high-scoring Boston Celtics—one of 20 players selected for the National Basketball Association's all-star game—also is the loop's top scorer today, having wrested the lead from teammate Bob Cousy.

Macauley poured in 94 points in four games last week to bring his total to 609 in 30 games, a 20.3 average. Cousy, a unanimous all-star choice, is in second place, one point behind, but leads in assists with 244 in 30 games.

Dolph Schayes, another unanimous all-star selection, of the Syracuse Nationals, is in third place with 603 points followed by rookie Frank Selvy of the Milwaukee Hawks with 592.

Kentucky Rates No. 1

(By The Associated Press)

For the third straight week, the undefeated Kentucky Wildcats ranked today as the nation's No. 1 team in the weekly Associated Press basketball poll and from all indications they're going to be mighty hard to dislodge.

Of the 116 ballots cast by sports writers and sportscasters throughout the country, 89 named Kentucky as the top team. The Wildcats received 1,090 points and finished more than 200 points ahead of runner-up Duquesne in the voting.

THE STREAKING Wildcats have won seven in a row this season after posting a 25-0 record during the 1953-54 campaign. The defending Southeastern Conference champions also go after their 130th straight home court victory Saturday night when they play host to Georgia Tech in their only game this week.

The top 10, with first place votes and season records (through Sunday's games) in parentheses (points on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis):

1.	Kentucky (7-9) (89)	1,090

Turner, Klein Score Upsets In Monday Bouts

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Gil Turner and Joey Klein, a pair of underdogs, have started the new year right. Turner won a unanimous decision over Italo Scortichini last night at St. Nicholas Arena and Klein stopped Gerry Dreyer on a seventh round TKO at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway.

Turner's victory was more important than Klein's because the once high-ranking welterweight showed signs of making a comeback. Packing 154 pounds to Scortichini's 154¾, Turner didn't fold in the late rounds as he has been doing lately. Instead he cut loose with some of his old style Turner machine gun bursts in the eighth and ninth of a rousing battle.

REFEREE JACK Watson gave Turner, a 13 to 5 underdog, a 5-3-2 edge. Judge Artie Aidala had it 8-2 and Judge Bert Grant 6-4 for a clean sweep. The AP card was 6-3-1 for Turner. Most of the 1,388 paying $2,070 thought Turner won but by closer than 8-2.

George Katz, Turner's manager, said he would give the Philadelphia Negro a rest until early February. He was cut around both eyes but required no stitching.

Scortichini was bruised but unhurt. His next is a Miami date, Jan. 15 with Joe Miceli.

OVER IN BROOKLYN, loser Dreyer is the one who is getting a rest.

"His mind is not on fights," said Manager Willie Ketchum. "All he talks about is home, home, home." (Praetoria, South Africa).

Klein, a New Yorker, slashed cuts over both eyes of Dreyer, the 11 to 5 favorite, and rocked the former British Empire welter champ just before the bell in the seventh.

Unknown Paces Los Angeles Open

Los Angeles, Jan. 4 (AP)—A comparative unknown on the winter golf trail captured qualifying honors in the 29th Los Angeles Open at Inglewood Country Club yesterday.

Don Fairfield, 25-year-old Casey, Ill., pro recently discharged from the Air Force, shot a 66, five under par, to shade Larry Douchey in Inglewood, former Canadian Amateur champ, who came in with 68.

Babe Lazane, Bakersfield, Calif., finished third with 69.

Fights Last Night

By The Associated Press

New York — Gil Turner, 154, Philadelphia, outpointed Italo Scortichini, 154¾, Italy, 10.

Brooklyn — Joey Klein, 150½, New York, stopped Gerry Dreyer, 150½, South Africa, 7.

Students have attributed some reports of fish and frogs falling with rain to waterspouts which may have sucked up the animals.

Record-Wrecker Kluszewski Thinks 60 Homers Possible

Cincinnati (NEA)—Ted Kluszewski, who has gripped the interest of Cincinnati baseball fans tighter than anybody since Paul Derringer and Bucky Walters rode high 15 years ago, isn't letting people go without some midwinter interest.

A check of Kluszewski's 1954 record shows the big-armed thumper put 49 balls out of play. This leads to the inevitable: "Is this the guy to top Babe Ruth's record?"

"Hit 60? I'd like to hit 61," the strong boy says.

THEN HE REPEATS the creed all long ball hitters in chase of the Babe's fabulous 60 have to know by heart.

"The earlier part of the season. That's when you have to be strong," he says. "Ruth hit 17 in September. No man is going to do that. You've got to be getting yours a lot earlier than that."

Kluszewski believes it's possible.

"But I'm going to have to do something about a couple of pitchers. Harvey Haddix of the Cards and Curt Simmons and Robin Roberts of the Phillies—they murder me. They get you on control. The parks they're in don't help either.

"In St. Louis—at Busch Stadium — the right field wall is short, but it's high. I hit line drives off it a lot. The same at Shibe Park in Philadelphia. If I get a little more lift on my hits in those two places I'd be better off."

IF BIG TED IS EVER going to do it, this should be the year. A solidly experienced player at 30, he is getting ready for his seventh full season as a regular. After hitting only 13 home runs in 1951 and 16 the next season, Big Klu found the range with 40 in 1953. Last season he solidified himself as a genuine long ball menace.

Only Willie Mays and Kluszewski figure, as of now, to have any sort of a chance to hit anywhere near the 60 figure. Cincinnati fans think 1955 is the time for Kluszewski to do it.

Last season he broke every Cincinnati club mark worth talking about as he batted .326 and drove in 141 runs and hit his 49 homers—most in the majors.

In 1955, Klu might crack a few more, including the 60 mark.

MANY BASEBALL people were beginning to talk that way last August, when he belted 13 out of the park. After a night game at the Polo Grounds—in which Ted drove a 400-footer into the seats—Garry Schumacher of the Giants' front office settled into a cab and mulled over the hit.

"If anybody's gonna hit 60, this is the guy to do it," he observed. "Him and Mays. But this guy is looking for the long ones and he might get there first—that is, if anybody is ever gonna get there. He's the closest thing to Lou Gehrig to come along."

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

Abe Saperstein, founder, owner, manager and coach of the famulous Harlem Globetrotters, who played here Sunday night, is a little rotund fellow who could walk under the arms of any of his players.

Nearly 30 years ago he took a game that wasn't too well known in his own country and made it an international by-word in sports. In the process of making basketball the national game in many countries he has earned the reputation of being the greatest sports promoter of all time.

AND TO WHAT DOES Saperstein attribute the phenomenal success of his Globetrotters? "To pantomime," he says. "The basketball playing rules are simple but beyond that the action of the stars are understood without words in any language."

It was this pantomime that made people smile and feel happy here Sunday. And it's getting to be quite a rare thing for professional sports in Kingston.

Watching the greatest sports show on earth proved another thing to the 1800 customers. That radio and TV notwithstanding, there is nothing like seeing great performers in person.

MR. REECE TATUM, known as Goose to the trade, an aging veteran who can't have too many years left, is Mr. Globetrotter and his pantomime, mimicry and artistry as a buffoon are a rewarding spectacle. Tatum is to basketball what Buster Kenny once was to baseball.

The Trotters play 340 games a year and have appeared in 44 countries. They get a two-weeks break once a year, "one week's vacation and one week of practice." They carry an entourage of 50 persons and four brilliant acts of entertainment. Their bus is furnished with sleepers and they carry their own full time referee, the immortal Pat Kennedy.

KENNEDY, WHO WORKED MANY games in Kingston with the old American League, is the best known arbiter in the history of the game. He quit as National Basketball Association supervisor a few years ago to take a full time job with the Trotters. It's a lucrative assignment and he and The Goose have developed a clever act. Kennedy also insures the Trotters of a game that has some semblance of sanity. The basketball purists have to turn their heads of some of the things Tantum does, of course, but a Globetrotter official told us that few home town referees can keep up with the Goose.

Sunday night the Trotters hustled back to Albany for a meal and then boarded a 2:25 a. m. sleeper to Chicago where last night they played before the usual 18,000-plus crowd. The drawing power of the Trotters is unparalleled in basketball history. In March of 1954 they played to a combined audience of 37,214 for an afternoon-night doubleheader at Madison Square Garden. A month later (April 5) at Chicago they drew 36,029 for the same setup.

WHILE THE GLOBETROTTERS are a solid basketball aggregation, their chief selling point is Goose Tatum and hippodrome stuff. They are able to beat the College All Stars in their annual series, but even Abe Saperstein would be the first to admit that any of the NBA teams could handle the Trotters in a show-down series.

Saperstein doesn't hesitate to admit "the greatest player I've ever seen was George Mikan of the Minneapolis Lakers and nobody ever came close to him. . . ."

But the Trotters have Goose Tatum who is the all-time great in his own field and the highest paid player in the history of the game. The Trotters amused a lot of people here and made them all laugh. It was a rare sight in a building that once rocked to great professional sports promotions. It made you think how wonderful it would be to return to those days. But that was only wishful thinking, of course.

Buried Cannon Found

Philadelphia (AP) — City workmen have dug up an old iron cannon dating back to the Revolutionary War in a downtown street. Its breach had been blown off. Two cannon balls, each weighing 6½ pounds were found wedged inside. The cannon is one of 18 such relics of the past found recently in the city. They had been imbedded in the ground, with only their tops sticking up, apparently to shield buildings from wagon and carriage wheels. Some of these may be used as decorative pieces in the Independence Mall project. Others may be placed on display in other sections of the country if their historical background fits the surroundings, according to Warren A. McCullough, administrative assistant to the superintendent of the Independence National Historical Park projects.

Tickets to Jail

Miami, Fla. (AP) — No burglar ever left an easier trail than the one who raided the home of Edward A. Portz. The loot was $400 worth of jewelry—and two tickets to a sports event. Deputies did the obvious thing: they went to the game. In the seats Portz had purchased they found the burglar and a friend.

The origin of meteorites is still controversial. Generally, they are believed to be lumps from an exploded planet or perhaps two that collided.

Schlundt Is the Key

Hoosiers Upset Michigan, 95-77

That man Don Schlundt still knows the direction of the basket and as long as he doesn't lose his bearnings, Indiana will remain a force to be reckoned with in the Big Ten.

The experts counted the Hoosiers out of the race before the start of the season, but it appeared today that their unimpressive 2-5 pre-conference record may have been a mighty hoax.

Schlundt scored 30 joints last night as Indiana began its campaign for a third straight conference title with a 95-77 triumph over favored Michigan.

BUT IOWA, the heir-apparent to the title, also looked powerful in its league opener, polishing off Wisconsin, 86-69. This one was significant because the Badgers had beaten Illinois, one of the teams regarded as being capable of giving Iowa a tussle.

But it never really was close. Iowa took the lead just before the half and never was headed. Dick Cable of Wisconsin was high scorer with 25 points.

In other Big Ten games, Robin Freeman, the leading scorer of the nation at the moment, dropped in 39 points to lead Ohio State to an 83-86 victory over Michigan State and Northwestern came from behind to edge Minnesota 74-72.

NOTRE DAME, which had a strong bid in for the top independent of the country, came a cropper at the hands of Louisville. The Cardinals had to come from behind a 53-45 deficit with 14 minutes to go to lick the Sugar Bowl chtampions 73-69.

DON SCHLUNDT

Purdue became the first team ever to score as many as 100 points against Bradley when the Big Ten outfit whipped the Braves, 109-92, while Tulane broke a school scoring record by routing club Deportivo Mexicanos (Mexican Sports Club) 107-55.

Seton Hall, beaten only once, recorded its ninth victory by trampling Colby 83-63. Florida got the jump in the Southeastern Conference race with an 81-68 trmiumph over Georgia, and Temple crushed Richmond 80-71.

DUQUESNE, the second ranking team in the country in the Associated Press weekly poll, took a 60-56 decision from Fort Belvoir.

The Big Seven and Southwest Conferences swing into action tonight. Missouri, possibly the strongest outfit in the Big Seven, tackles Kansas, an old nemesis. Texas Christian, the Southwest Conference choice, tangles with Arkansas.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Leafing through an old local paper like The Daily Freeman of Friday, Oct. 25, 1878, you run across something like The Ulster Glass Works at Ellenville, will begin blowing about the 1st of November. Makes you stop and think. From time to time I am asked about glass items made locally perhaps the above may help someone who has some Ellenville glass. Cider from Milton was bringing five cents a gallon. Sirloin steaks were selling for 16 cents a pound; porterhouse steak for 15 cents, and oysters for 20 cents a quart. Bee hunters were reaping a rich harvest that fall. I remember when folks used to bring my father bees wax in the raw and he would melt it and strain it carefully then pour it into paper made boxes. The paper boxes he made himself from plain white paper and he had a trick of doing up the corners so they held. They were like cookie sheets and the fresh bees wax looked like fresh vanilla fudge and the honey aroma filled the store. I liked to watch him, although he told me to keep away as the hot beeswax gave a bad burn. Then he would cut it in squares like fudge and sell it for various purposes. He also used it in making up medicines. I remember some women bought chunks of it to make sewing thread easy to thread by making it pointed and hard.

Today rain, snow and sleet brings on auto accidents. Back in 1878 high wind and high tides sent such steamers as the C. Vanderbilt in her usual peaceful landing at Tivoli crashing past her pier into another steamer and the tug, Hattie, of Malden. The ferry-boat steamer received a hard squeeze and the tug was shoved stern first ashore, fortunately not injuring either. The tug got afloat unaided a short time afterward. A lamp on the ferry-boat was upset setting fire to the box which contained it. It was immediately extinguished. The Vanderbilt then, after considerable difficulty, backed out into the river and went on without landing. The steamer, Escort, was unable to effect a landing at the Saugerties Long Dock the same night for the same reason. The tide was so high there that nearly all the docks were submerged. So regardless what form of transportation man devises, nature and weather still play a large part on land, air and water. I think whether 75 years or today, it is best to stay home, if possible if the weather is bad.

The Poughkeepsie Eagle of 75 years ago has an item in which it says that L. W. Dutcher, superintendent of the poor there, was present at a bank and was surprised to see a large number of persons with their bank books coming and going, either depositing or withdrawing money who had a habit of coming to Mr. Dutcher, for coal and other necessities. They pleaded poverty to him and he accepted their plea on face value. He said that in the future he would be more careful as who was to receive the taxpayers' money.

One of the banks listed in the above paper is the last one left in Rondout and still giving excellent service to all those who enter its doors, the Rondout Savings Bank. 75 years ago it was on the second floor of the Masonic Hall Building and business hours were from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. Today it occupies the old S. E. Eighmey corner with a modern building. Although the staff has changed since I was a little girl and went there, the same friendly spirit still prevails and it never lost its coziness of a people's bank servicing Rondout.

Smoke Hides Films

Singapore (AP) — Singaporeans are movie-goers, but they're making so much smoke that they're beclouding the screen. The theatres flash slides before each film performance, telling patrons: "Reduce the smoke screen and see better the cinescreen." The appeal doesn't seem to have had much effect. Apparently no one has thought of banning smoking in theatres.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Study Advantages Of Various Bids

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

Some tournament players advocate an opening bid of one no-trump on 12 to 14 points instead of the standard value of 16 to 18 points. One of the chief advantages of such a bid is that the opponents, particularly in tournament play, tend to enter the auction and can often be punished.

In today's hand, for example, Edgar Kaplan and Alfred Sheinwold demonstrated the "weak" no-trump in the recent Winter National Tournament. Kaplan opened with one no-trump on only 12 points despite the unfavorable vulnerability, and Sheinwold eventually doubled South at two spades.

The double is an important part of the weak no-trump. You must be willing to double the opponents at low contracts when your own hand is only mediocre, and you must be able to defend well to get full value from your scrappy holdings.

Incidentally, Sheinwold recommends the weak no-trump very highly in his brand-new book, How to Bid and Play in Duplicate Tournaments, and his double of two spades on this hand should be taken as a model of a close double when you use this method of bidding.

Kaplan made the "fancy" opening of the six of clubs, low from a doubleton ace. It didn't have much effect on the play,

East won the first trick with the jack of clubs, returned a club to West's ace, and won the diamond return with the ace. He then cashed the king of clubs, noting his partner's diamond discard.

It was now clear that the defenders needed two trump tricks to set the contract, and three trump tricks to get a really worth-while penalty. Sheinwold therefore led a fourth club even though this gave declarer a ruff and a discard.

South could gain no advantage from the ruff and discard. He chose to discard a heart from his hand, and West discarded another diamond. When South tried to get out of dummy later on by ruffing the third round of diamonds, West was in position to overruff, and the defenders thus got their three trump tricks and a penalty of 300 points.

This was good for a fine score, since nobody got higher than a part-score contract on the East-West cards.

Mansfield Asks Names of Those Called Subversive

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) called today for a Senate investigation to disclose "the exact number" and the names of subversive stripped from government pay rolls by the Eisenhower administration.

Mansfield's request came in the form of a letter to Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D.-S.C.), prospective new chairman of the Senate Civil Service Committee. Mansfield made the letter public.

The action followed close on the heels of a report by the Civil Service Commission on operation of the security program during its first 16 months. That report, issued yesterday, said 8,008 persons had been dropped from the federal pay roll and that 2,096 of these had in their files "subversive data" of varying kinds.

BESIDES INDICATIONS of subversion, the security program lists as grounds for dismissal perversion, criminal convictions or "other" information of a security-risk nature such as alcoholism or inability to keep a secret.

Mansfield and a number of other Democrats have called the figures a "numbers game" and contend they fail to show how many government employes were actually fired for subversive associations or activities and how many resigned before their cases were finally decided.

U. S. Offers 2 Million For Bikini Damages

Tokyo, Jan. 4 (AP)—The United States today offered and Japan accepted two million dollars as payment in full for all damages caused by American hydrogen weapon tests at Bikini Atoll last March.

U. S. Ambassador John M. Allison expressed regret over injuries suffered by Japanese fishermen dusted by radioactive fallout from the blast. One died.

Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu in reply thanked the United States and stated "the sum tendered is acceptable to the government of Japan." The Japanese had asked, including many forms of indirect damage, up to seven million dollars.

The government of Japan is to distribute the money "in such equitable manner as it may determine."

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Leafing through an old local paper like The Daily Freeman of Friday, Oct. 25, 1878, you run across something like The Ulster Glass Works at Ellenville, will begin blowing about the 1st of November. Makes you stop and think. From time to time I am asked about glass items made locally perhaps the above may help someone who has some Ellenville glass. Cider from Milton was bringing five cents a gallon. Sirloin steaks were selling for 16 cents a pound; porterhouse steak for 15 cents, and oysters for 20 cents a quart. Bee hunters were reaping a rich harvest that fall. I remember when folks used to bring my father bees wax in the raw and he would melt it and strain it carefully then pour it into paper made boxes. The paper boxes he made himself from plain white paper and he had a trick of doing up the corners so they held. They were like cookie sheets and the fresh bees wax looked like fresh vanilla fudge and the honey aroma filled the store. I liked to watch him, although he told me to keep away as the hot beeswax gave a bad burn. Then he would cut it in squares like fudge and sell it for various purposes. He also used it in making up medicines. I remember some women bought chunks of it to make sewing thread easy to thread by making it pointed and hard.

Today rain, snow and sleet brings on auto accidents. Back in 1878 high wind and high tides sent such steamers as the C. Vanderbilt in her usual peaceful landing at Tivoli crashing past her pier into another steamer and the tug, Hattie, of Malden. The ferry-boat steamer received a hard squeeze and the tug was shoved stern first ashore, fortunately not injuring either. The tug got afloat unaided a short time afterward. A lamp on the ferry-boat was upset setting fire to the box which contained it. It was immediately extinguished. The Vanderbilt then, after considerable difficulty, backed out into the river and went on without landing. The steamer, Escort, was unable to effect a landing at the Saugerties Long Dock the same night for the same reason. The tide was so high there that nearly all the docks were submerged. So regardless what form of transportation man devises, nature and weather still play a large part on land, air and water. I think whether 75 years or today, it is best to stay home, if possible if the weather is bad.

The Poughkeepsie Eagle of 75 years ago has an item in which it says that L. W. Dutcher, superintendent of the poor there, was present at a bank and was surprised to see a large number of persons with their bank books coming and going, either depositing or withdrawing money who had a habit of coming to Mr. Dutcher, for coal and other necessities. They pleaded poverty to him and he accepted their plea on face value. He said that in the future he would be more careful as who was to receive the taxpayers' money.

One of the banks listed in the above paper is the last one left in Rondout and still giving excellent service to all those who enter its doors, the Rondout Savings Bank. 75 years ago it was on the second floor of the Masonic Hall Building and business hours were from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. Today it occupies the old S. E. Eighmey corner with a modern building. Although the staff has changed since I was a little girl and went there, the same friendly spirit still prevails and it never lost its coziness of a people's bank servicing Rondout.

Smoke Hides Films

Singapore (AP) — Singaporeans are movie-goers, but they're making so much smoke that they're beclouding the screen. The theatres flash slides before each film performance, telling patrons: "Reduce the smoke screen and see better the cinescreen." The appeal doesn't seem to have had much effect. Apparently no one has thought of banning smoking in theatres.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Study Advantages Of Various Bids

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

Some tournament players advocate an opening bid of one no-trump on 12 to 14 points instead of the standard value of 16 to 18 points. One of the chief advantages of such a bid is that the opponents, particularly in tournament play, tend to enter the auction and can often be punished.

In today's hand, for example, Edgar Kaplan and Alfred Sheinwold demonstrated the "weak" no-trump in the recent Winter National Tournament. Kaplan opened with one no-trump on only 12 points despite the unfavorable vulnerability, and Sheinwold eventually doubled South at two spades.

The double is an important part of the weak no-trump. You must be willing to double the opponents at low contracts when your own hand is only mediocre, and you must be able to defend well to get full value from your scrappy holdings.

Incidentally, Sheinwold recommends the weak no-trump very highly in his brand-new book, How to Bid and Play in Duplicate Tournaments, and his double of two spades on this hand should be taken as a model of a close double when you use this method of bidding.

Kaplan made the "fancy" opening of the six of clubs, low from a doubleton ace. It didn't have much effect on the play,

	NORTH 4
	♠ A 7 ♥ A Q 9 2 ♦ K Q J 3 ♣ Q 7 3
WEST		EAST (D)
♠ K Q 6 ♥ K 6 5 4 ♦ 10 9 7 5 ♣ A 6		♠ J 10 3 ♥ 8 3 ♦ A 8 4 ♣ K J 8 4 2
	SOUTH ♠ 9 8 5 4 2 ♥ J 10 7 ♦ 6 2 ♣ 10 9 5

East-West vul.

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 N.T.	Double
Pass	2 ♠	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♣ 6

but it does go to show how ingenious some of the younger experts can get.

East won the first trick with the jack of clubs, returned a club to West's ace, and won the diamond return with the ace. He then cashed the king of clubs, noting his partner's diamond discard.

It was now clear that the defenders needed two trump tricks to set the contract, and three trump tricks to get a really worth-while penalty. Sheinwold therefore led a fourth club even though this gave declarer a ruff and a discard.

South could gain no advantage from the ruff and discard. He chose to discard a heart from his hand, and West discarded another diamond. When South tried to get out of dummy later on by ruffing the third round of diamonds, West was in position to overruff, and the defenders thus got their three trump tricks and a penalty of 300 points.

This was good for a fine score, since nobody got higher than a part-score contract on the East-West cards.

Mansfield Asks Names of Those Called Subversive

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) called today for a Senate investigation to disclose "the exact number" and the names of subversive stripped from government pay rolls by the Eisenhower administration.

Mansfield's request came in the form of a letter to Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D.-S.C.), prospective new chairman of the Senate Civil Service Committee. Mansfield made the letter public.

The action followed close on the heels of a report by the Civil Service Commission on operation of the security program during its first 16 months. That report, issued yesterday, said 8,008 persons had been dropped from the federal pay roll and that 2,096 of these had in their files "subversive data" of varying kinds.

BESIDES INDICATIONS of subversion, the security program lists as grounds for dismissal perversion, criminal convictions or "other" information of a security-risk nature such as alcoholism or inability to keep a secret.

Mansfield and a number of other Democrats have called the figures a "numbers game" and contend they fail to show how many government employes were actually fired for subversive associations or activities and how many resigned before their cases were finally decided.

U. S. Offers 2 Million For Bikini Damages

Tokyo, Jan. 4 (AP)—The United States today offered and Japan accepted two million dollars as payment in full for all damages caused by American hydrogen weapon tests at Bikini Atoll last March.

U. S. Ambassador John M. Allison expressed regret over injuries suffered by Japanese fishermen dusted by radioactive fallout from the blast. One died.

Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu in reply thanked the United States and stated "the sum tendered is acceptable to the government of Japan." The Japanese had asked, including many forms of indirect damage, up to seven million dollars.

The government of Japan is to distribute the money "in such equitable manner as it may determine."

New Bride Pleads To Drunkenness, Husband Is Dead

Chicopee, Mass., Jan. 4 (AP)—Doris Dana, 22, a bride of eight weeks, whose husband, Albert, 22, was found shot to death in their hotel room last night, pleaded guilty to drunkenness in District Court today and was held in $50 bail.

Her case was continued to Thursday while police investigated the death of her husband, a Korean veteran only recently discharged from service.

The young widow wept during her frief arraignment before Judge Daniel M. Keyes, Jr.

Police learned of the shooting last night when Mrs. Dana ran into a cafe across from her hotel room waving a .32 calibre pistol and shouting "call the police."

Capt. Harold F. O'Connor, head of the detective bureau, said there is the possibility the gunshot wound Dana suffered was self-inflicted. He died in Springfield Hostital shortly before midnight, he was found in his room at the Hotel Edwards, A bullet through the head.

State pathologist Dr. Stephan Bjornson joined Medical Examiner Dr. W. A. R. Chapin in performing an autopsy at the hospital.

Police said the Danas came here recently from Montpelier, Vt., where Mrs. Dana lived before her marriage.

Dana, a native of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., had resided with his mother, Mrs. Rachel Lemay, in Chicopee Falls.

Patrons in the cafe scattered when Mrs. Dana ran in with the pistol. The bartender summoned police who took the weapon from her. It was not until then they learned Dana had been shot.

Robber Suspect

a delivery and almost immediately encountered the apparent holdup attempt.

Rettig, wearing a guard's uniform and a civilian overcoat and hat, said he had stopped at a glass-topped table in the center of the banking floor when he heard somebody say:

"Give me your gun."

"I TURNED AROUND and saw this man with a gun in his right hand, stuck into the back of the guard," Rettig said. "The guard (Kaszuba) said, 'I have no gun'."

Rettig said the gunman retorted: "Don't kid me. Give me your gun."

Rettig reached under his overcoat and grabbed his own .38 caliber revolver as the suspect began marching the bank guard toward the rear of the bank.

The former policeman said he fired a warning shot and that the suspect then fired one shot at Kaszuba.

Rettig then took aim, he said, and fired two shots at the suspect, hitting him twice in the back. The suspect apparently died instantly.

WITHIN MOMENTS, attracted by the shots, several thousand men and women from the streets, garment lofts, office buildings, stores and restaurants, converged on the bank to learn what had happened.

A number of emergency squad members, mounted police, detectives and uniformed police also swarmed to the scene.

Kaszuba disclosed he had possessed a gun but had been unable to draw it while the suspect had him at gunpoint.

Rettig, who served 21 years in the police department, can shoot either right or left-handed. He chose to fire right handed.

Police said the suspect had not stolen anything before being shot down. They said they believed he had planned to carry out the robbery alone and had no accomplices.

10 Gallons of Gas Might Have Saved Woman on Flight

Long Beach, Calif., Jan. 4 (AP) — Ten more gallons of fuel might have saved Dianna Bixby, noted aviatrix whose broken body was flown back here from Mexico by her grieving husband.

"If she'd have had any kind of break at all—if she'd had 10 more gallons of gas—she would have made it," said Lt. E. S. Childers, co-pilot of a San Diego coast guard plane which located the wreckage of Mrs. Bixby's plane.

Robert Bixby, 40, her husband, couldn't say anything to reporters when ne arrived last night.

Petite Mrs. Bixby, 32 and 5 feet 2, perished in the sea which also claimed the life of her idol, Amelia Earhart, who was lost in the Pacific on a world flight nearly 18 years ago.

MRS. BIXBY'S freight cargo plane, a converted A20 bomber, crash landed Sunday 150 yards offshore in the Gulf of California near Loreto, Baja California, Mexico.

She knew she was running out of fuel and evidently had to attempt a landing on the water instead of ashore.

Her husband knew her predicament, too, by radio conversation between the two planes they were flying. But he was about an hour behind her.

He heard her say calmly that she was nearly out of gas but thought she had spotted a clearing for a landing.

Mrs. Bixby and her husband operated Bixby Airborne Products, an air freight service.

Ruling Is Reversed

Denver, Jan. 4 (AP)—The U. S. 10th Circuit Court of Appeals in a 2-1 decision, reversed a U. S. Tax Court ruling yesterday in a case involving nearly $150,000 in taxes which the federal government had sought to collect from the Wichita Beacon newspaper. The 2-1 decision upheld arguments by Beacon attorneys that taxes on pre-paid newspaper subscriptions should be divided over the length of the subscriptions. Thus, money received for a five-year subscription would be taxed over the five-year period. The government had argued that all money received for subscriptions should be taxed at the time it is received. There was no immediate decision whether the case would be appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Reports Rolls Stolen

Jacob Senor, proprietor of the S & C Lunch, 44 East Strand, reported to police headquarters at 6:44 a. m. today that seven dozen hard rolls left in the hallway next to the lunchroom had been stolen sometime during the early morning. This is the third time in the past two weeks the rolls have been stolen, he said. The rolls are left every night around midnight in the hallway next to the lunchroom.

Rapid Hose to Elect

Rapid Hose Company No. 1 will hold its annual meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday at the engine house on Hone street. President Joseph Bruck requests all members to attend. Election of officers will be held and final plans made for the banquet to be held January 20 at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church Hall.

But From U. S., Yes!

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—U. S. government action barring Russians from more than one-fourth of this country drew no immediate reaction from the Soviet Union—but a chorus of "why not us?" queries poured in on the State Department today from many of the remaining American communities. In retaliation for official Soviet restrictions on travel of Americans in Russia—and vowedly for security reasons—the State Department yesterday declared 1,000 or so counties in 40 states off-limits to about 400 Russians working for the Soviet embassy, the Amtorg Trade Agency and Russian news bureaus. The Russian delegation to the UN also is affected, although some 50 Soviet citizens connected with the UN secretariat are not.

Alice Moves Along

Miami, Fla., Jan. 4 (AP) — A small storm, with winds slightly below hurricane strength, continued to move across the open Caribbean Sea today 225 miles or more south of San Juan, P. R. An advisory at 5 a. m. (EST) today said the hurricane had winds of 60 to 70 miles per hour near its small center and gale winds extend out 40 miles to the north and 25 miles in the southern semi-circle. Its center was located at latitude 15.3 north, longitude 66.5 west, or about 1,225 miles southeast of Miami. Its continued slow movement to the southwest was carrying it away from the continental United States.

Two Girls Held

London, Jan. 4 (AP)—Two girls with a record of window smashing in their native Scotland admitted in court today they heaved pieces of coke through a pane at No. 10 Downing street, Prime Minister Churchill's official residence. Churchill was at No. 10 during the incident last night, but was not near the shattered window. The coke tossers, Jane Crossaan, 18, and Margaret Wilson, 24, also admitted breaking two windows in the nearby privy council offices. Neither gave a reason for the vandalism and Magistrate Bertram Reece ordered them held for mental examinations.

Ships Use Canal

Port Said, Jan. 4 (AP)—A long line of ships moved through the Suez Canal today after workmen cleared away the wreckage of a ship-bridge collision that blocked the strategic waterway four days. A thick fog which last night halted resumption of navigation lifted early this morning, and 69 ships backed up here sailed southward through the canal. The ships included liners, freighters and tankers. Another 34 ships waited to move northward from the Bitter Lakes, above the canal's southern entrance.

Cartoons Are Given

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—President Eisenhower got a hearty chuckle today out of a volume of cartoons of himself presented by the National Cartoonists Society. The 95 cartoons were drawn by members of the society at a breakfast which the President attended in Washington last June in connection with the government's savings bond program. At that time, the President declared "I want all of these" when the cartoonists showed him their sketches.

Three Are Appointed

Albany, Jan. 4 (AP)—State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today announced appointments to three $13,500-a-year posts in the Department of Audit and Control. The new Democratic comptroller named: Joseph J. Kelly, former mayor of Buffalo, as deputy comptroller in charge of municipal affairs, succeeding William Embler of Albany. William Giden of New York, as deputy comptroller in charge of the state retirement system, succeeding Milton Alpert of Albany. William B. Volet of Brooklyn, as executive assistant to the comptroller. The post had been vacant under former Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern, whom Levitt succeeded Saturday.

vited to confer as often as they wished with him and Democratic Legislative leaders.

2. He was assuring organized labor that his administration would consult with Harold C. Hanover of Albany, secretary-treasurer and Legislative representative of the State Federation of labor, and Harold Garno of New York, the CIO representative. Outgoing Gov. Thomas E. Dewey did not reappoint the two last week to the State Council on Unemployment Insurance. Dewey appointed two new members.

3. He had told Miss Jane Todd of Tarrytown, vice chairman of the Republican State Committee, and Miss Catherine Whitener of New York, another Republican, that they might keep their state jobs until they became eligible for pensions later this month.

MISS TODD, a deputy secretary of commerce, will be eligible for a pension Jan. 31.

The governor, saying there had been a "great deal of thoughtlessness" by employers in seasonal layoffs, disclosed he had instructed his industrial commissioner, Isadore Lubin, to study what could be done "to further regularize employment."

Harriman said his administration could "analyze the reasons for poverty" and stimulate action by private enterprise and the federal government. He added that the state, meanwhile, could try to reduce the costs of its welfare programs.

Harriman-Rauh

his argument that Harriman should make the address.

Harriman's response was to shout, "get out." Rauh left.

Rauh is a national vice chairman of ADA and a member of the District of Columbia Democratic Central Committee. As a delegate to the 1952 convention he was one of Harriman's leaders up to the time Harriman withdrew in favor of Stevenson.

In Chicago, an associate said Stevenson had been asked to speak at the ADA banquet but did not accept because he is curtailing his speaking activities. He has re-opened a law office.

The associate said Stevenson will not have any comment on the remark attributed to Harriman.

At least a score of persons, including ex-President Arnulfo Arias and two women, have been rounded up for questioning. Col. Saturnino Flores, deputy commander of Panama's National Guard, has indicated strongly that the weight of suspicion is on followers of Arias, who was ousted from the presidency in 1951 by a bloody National Guard coup. Remon then was head of the guard, Panama's chief military force.

Heating Pad Stolen

Clayton Merwin, 70 Liberty street, reported to police headquarters at 4:05 p. m. yesterday that a heating pad valued at $6.95 had been stolen from his Grand Union delivery truck while it was parked near his home.

Special Movie Showing Planned

There will be a special showing of the new movie, Ruth, on Sunday, Jan. 9, at the Old Dutch Church at 9:45 a. m. The showing is sponsored by the high school department of the Church School, and all teen-agers and adults are invited.

The movie, a scripture-documented film based on the Old Testament book of Ruth, portrays the faithfulness of the young widow, Ruth, toward her mother-in-law, Naomi.

Invitations are being extended to all Sunday Schools in the area. Attendance credit will be given to all visitors. A worship service in charge of high school young people will precede the showing of the film.

Condition 'Still Serious'

The condition of Mrs. Joanna Van Kleeck, 87, of 537 Albany avenue, who was burned in the kitchen of her home December 27 when flames from a jet on her gas stove ignited her sleeve, was reported "still serious" at Benedictine Hospital, today.

George Expects

party floor leaders, with no upsets or contests in prospect.

The new Congress convenes at noon tomorrow, with the Democrats taking over control, and then marks time until the President's message a day later.

WITHOUT DIRECT reference to the message, George said in an interview that unless something unforeseen develops, he believes relations between the Democrats in Congress and the White House will be good.

"On the foreign affairs, international trade and national defense programs, I do not think there will be any basic disagreements with the President," he said. "Perhaps there will be arguments over some details. But I do not anticipate sharp, fundamental differences over even most of the domestic program."

George said he will not push in 1955 for tax-cutting increases in personal income exemptions of the kind he sought unsuccessfully last year. He said he believes exemptions should be raised, but not until greater progress has been made toward balancing the budget.

Predicting a prosperous year at home, George said he believes the "prospect of peace is certainly somewhat clearer and better than in the past."

GOP Pledges

Dewey's 12-year administration and at carrying out campaign pledges made by Sen. Irving M. Ives.

Harriman defeated Ives for governor. Nevertheless, the GOP leaders maintained theirs still was the majority party, since it took both Liberal and Democratic party votes to elect Harriman.

"Other major issues," they said, will be considered and "may be the subject of future statements."

Heck and Mahoney renewed their pledge to cooperate with Harriman "in all reasonable proposals" that the legislators deem in the best interests of all the people of the state. They continued:

"We invite the governor to cooperate with the majority in both branches of the state legislature in putting into effect the legislative program which we shall enact."

The GOP leaders said they would welcome "a frank and free debate on the issues of state government" and promised to be "frank, fair and friendly" in matters requiring agreement between Harriman and the legislature.

They added that they would report regularly to the people during and after the legislative session, which opens tomorrow.

New Bride Pleads To Drunkenness, Husband Is Dead

Chicopee, Mass., Jan. 4 (AP)—Doris Dana, 22, a bride of eight weeks, whose husband, Albert, 22, was found shot to death in their hotel room last night, pleaded guilty to drunkenness in District Court today and was held in $50 bail.

Her case was continued to Thursday while police investigated the death of her husband, a Korean veteran only recently discharged from service.

The young widow wept during her frief arraignment before Judge Daniel M. Keyes, Jr.

Police learned of the shooting last night when Mrs. Dana ran into a cafe across from her hotel room waving a .32 calibre pistol and shouting "call the police."

Capt. Harold F. O'Connor, head of the detective bureau, said there is the possibility the gunshot wound Dana suffered was self-inflicted. He died in Springfield Hostital shortly before midnight, he was found in his room at the Hotel Edwards, A bullet through the head.

State pathologist Dr. Stephan Bjornson joined Medical Examiner Dr. W. A. R. Chapin in performing an autopsy at the hospital.

Police said the Danas came here recently from Montpelier, Vt., where Mrs. Dana lived before her marriage.

Dana, a native of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., had resided with his mother, Mrs. Rachel Lemay, in Chicopee Falls.

Patrons in the cafe scattered when Mrs. Dana ran in with the pistol. The bartender summoned police who took the weapon from her. It was not until then they learned Dana had been shot.

Robber Suspect

a delivery and almost immediately encountered the apparent holdup attempt.

Rettig, wearing a guard's uniform and a civilian overcoat and hat, said he had stopped at a glass-topped table in the center of the banking floor when he heard somebody say:

"Give me your gun."

"I TURNED AROUND and saw this man with a gun in his right hand, stuck into the back of the guard," Rettig said. "The guard (Kaszuba) said, 'I have no gun'."

Rettig said the gunman retorted: "Don't kid me. Give me your gun."

Rettig reached under his overcoat and grabbed his own .38 caliber revolver as the suspect began marching the bank guard toward the rear of the bank.

The former policeman said he fired a warning shot and that the suspect then fired one shot at Kaszuba.

Rettig then took aim, he said, and fired two shots at the suspect, hitting him twice in the back. The suspect apparently died instantly.

WITHIN MOMENTS, attracted by the shots, several thousand men and women from the streets, garment lofts, office buildings, stores and restaurants, converged on the bank to learn what had happened.

A number of emergency squad members, mounted police, detectives and uniformed police also swarmed to the scene.

Kaszuba disclosed he had possessed a gun but had been unable to draw it while the suspect had him at gunpoint.

Rettig, who served 21 years in the police department, can shoot either right or left-handed. He chose to fire right handed.

Police said the suspect had not stolen anything before being shot down. They said they believed he had planned to carry out the robbery alone and had no accomplices.

The bank branch is located three blocks south of Times Square.

10 Gallons of Gas Might Have Saved Woman on Flight

Long Beach, Calif., Jan. 4 (AP) — Ten more gallons of fuel might have saved Dianna Bixby, noted aviatrix whose broken body was flown back here from Mexico by her grieving husband.

"If she'd have had any kind of break at all—if she'd had 10 more gallons of gas—she would have made it," said Lt. E. S. Childers, co-pilot of a San Diego coast guard plane which located the wreckage of Mrs. Bixby's plane.

Robert Bixby, 40, her husband, couldn't say anything to reporters when ne arrived last night.

Petite Mrs. Bixby, 32 and 5 feet 2, perished in the sea which also claimed the life of her idol, Amelia Earhart, who was lost in the Pacific on a world flight nearly 18 years ago.

MRS. BIXBY'S freight cargo plane, a converted A20 bomber, crash landed Sunday 150 yards offshore in the Gulf of California near Loreto, Baja California, Mexico.

She knew she was running out of fuel and evidently had to attempt a landing on the water instead of ashore.

Her husband knew her predicament, too, by radio conversation between the two planes they were flying. But he was about an hour behind her.

He heard her say calmly that she was nearly out of gas but thought she had spotted a clearing for a landing.

Mrs. Bixby and her husband operated Bixby Airborne Products, an air freight service.

Ruling Is Reversed

Denver, Jan. 4 (AP)—The U. S. 10th Circuit Court of Appeals in a 2-1 decision, reversed a U. S. Tax Court ruling yesterday in a case involving nearly $150,000 in taxes which the federal government had sought to collect from the Wichita Beacon newspaper. The 2-1 decision upheld arguments by Beacon attorneys that taxes on pre-paid newspaper subscriptions should be divided over the length of the subscriptions. Thus, money received for a five-year subscription would be taxed over the five-year period. The government had argued that all money received for subscriptions should be taxed at the time it is received. There was no immediate decision whether the case would be appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Reports Rolls Stolen

Jacob Senor, proprietor of the S & C Lunch, 44 East Strand, reported to police headquarters at 6:44 a. m. today that seven dozen hard rolls left in the hallway next to the lunchroom had been stolen sometime during the early morning. This is the third time in the past two weeks the rolls have been stolen, he said. The rolls are left every night around midnight in the hallway next to the lunchroom.

Rapid Hose to Elect

Rapid Hose Company No. 1 will hold its annual meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday at the engine house on Hone street. President Joseph Bruck requests all members to attend. Election of officers will be held and final plans made for the banquet to be held January 20 at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church Hall.

But From U. S., Yes!

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—U. S. government action barring Russians from more than one-fourth of this country drew no immediate reaction from the Soviet Union—but a chorus of "why not us?" queries poured in on the State Department today from many of the remaining American communities. In retaliation for official Soviet restrictions on travel of Americans in Russia—and vowedly for security reasons—the State Department yesterday declared 1,000 or so counties in 40 states off-limits to about 400 Russians working for the Soviet embassy, the Amtorg Trade Agency and Russian news bureaus. The Russian delegation to the UN also is affected, although some 50 Soviet citizens connected with the UN secretariat are not.

Alice Moves Along

Miami, Fla., Jan. 4 (AP) — A small storm, with winds slightly below hurricane strength, continued to move across the open Caribbean Sea today 225 miles or more south of San Juan, P. R. An advisory at 5 a. m. (EST) today said the hurricane had winds of 60 to 70 miles per hour near its small center and gale winds extend out 40 miles to the north and 25 miles in the southern semi-circle. Its center was located at latitude 15.3 north, longitude 66.5 west, or about 1,225 miles southeast of Miami. Its continued slow movement to the southwest was carrying it away from the continental United States.

Two Girls Held

London, Jan. 4 (AP)—Two girls with a record of window smashing in their native Scotland admitted in court today they heaved pieces of coke through a pane at No. 10 Downing street, Prime Minister Churchill's official residence. Churchill was at No. 10 during the incident last night, but was not near the shattered window. The coke tossers, Jane Crossaan, 18, and Margaret Wilson, 24, also admitted breaking two windows in the nearby privy council offices. Neither gave a reason for the vandalism and Magistrate Bertram Reece ordered them held for mental examinations.

Ships Use Canal

Port Said, Jan. 4 (AP)—A long line of ships moved through the Suez Canal today after workmen cleared away the wreckage of a ship-bridge collision that blocked the strategic waterway four days. A thick fog which last night halted resumption of navigation lifted early this morning, and 69 ships backed up here sailed southward through the canal. The ships included liners, freighters and tankers. Another 34 ships waited to move northward from the Bitter Lakes, above the canal's southern entrance.

Cartoons Are Given

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—President Eisenhower got a hearty chuckle today out of a volume of cartoons of himself presented by the National Cartoonists Society. The 95 cartoons were drawn by members of the society at a breakfast which the President attended in Washington last June in connection with the government's savings bond program. At that time, the President declared "I want all of these" when the cartoonists showed him their sketches.

Three Are Appointed

Albany, Jan. 4 (AP)—State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today announced appointments to three $13,500-a-year posts in the Department of Audit and Control. The new Democratic comptroller named: Joseph J. Kelly, former mayor of Buffalo, as deputy comptroller in charge of municipal affairs, succeeding William Embler of Albany. William Giden of New York, as deputy comptroller in charge of the state retirement system, succeeding Milton Alpert of Albany. William B. Volet of Brooklyn, as executive assistant to the comptroller. The post had been vacant under former Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern, whom Levitt succeeded Saturday.

vited to confer as often as they wished with him and Democratic Legislative leaders.

2. He was assuring organized labor that his administration would consult with Harold C. Hanover of Albany, secretary-treasurer and Legislative representative of the State Federation of labor, and Harold Garno of New York, the CIO representative. Outgoing Gov. Thomas E. Dewey did not reappoint the two last week to the State Council on Unemployment Insurance. Dewey appointed two new members.

3. He had told Miss Jane Todd of Tarrytown, vice chairman of the Republican State Committee, and Miss Catherine Whitener of New York, another Republican, that they might keep their state jobs until they became eligible for pensions later this month.

MISS TODD, a deputy secretary of commerce, will be eligible for a pension Jan. 31.

The governor, saying there had been a "great deal of thoughtlessness" by employers in seasonal layoffs, disclosed he had instructed his industrial commissioner, Isadore Lubin, to study what could be done "to further regularize employment."

Harriman said his administration could "analyze the reasons for poverty" and stimulate action by private enterprise and the federal government. He added that the state, meanwhile, could try to reduce the costs of its welfare programs.

his argument that Harriman should make the address.

Rauh is a national vice chairman of ADA and a member of the District of Columbia Democratic Central Committee. As a delegate to the 1952 convention he was one of Harriman's leaders up to the time Harriman withdrew in favor of Stevenson.

In Chicago, an associate said Stevenson had been asked to speak at the ADA banquet but did not accept because he is curtailing his speaking activities. He has re-opened a law office.

The associate said Stevenson will not have any comment on the remark attributed to Harriman.

Saturnino Flores, deputy commander of Panama's National Guard, has indicated strongly that the weight of suspicion is on followers of Arias, who was ousted from the presidency in 1951 by a bloody National Guard coup. Remon then was head of the guard, Panama's chief military force.

Special Movie Showing Planned

There will be a special showing of the new movie, Ruth, on Sunday, Jan. 9, at the Old Dutch Church at 9:45 a. m. The showing is sponsored by the high school department of the Church School, and all teen-agers and adults are invited.

The movie, a scripture-documented film based on the Old Testament book of Ruth, portrays the faithfulness of the young widow, Ruth, toward her mother-in-law, Naomi.

Invitations are being extended to all Sunday Schools in the area. Attendance credit will be given to all visitors. A worship service in charge of high school young people will precede the showing of the film.

Condition 'Still Serious'

The condition of Mrs. Joanna Van Kleeck, 87, of 537 Albany avenue, who was burned in the kitchen of her home December 27 when flames from a jet on her gas stove ignited her sleeve, was reported "still serious" at Benedictine Hospital, today.

George Expects

party floor leaders, with no upsets or contests in prospect.

The new Congress convenes at noon tomorrow, with the Democrats taking over control, and then marks time until the President's message a day later.

WITHOUT DIRECT reference to the message, George said in an interview that unless something unforeseen develops, he believes relations between the Democrats in Congress and the White House will be good.

"On the foreign affairs, international trade and national defense programs, I do not think there will be any basic disagreements with the President," he said. "Perhaps there will be arguments over some details. But I do not anticipate sharp, fundamental differences over even most of the domestic program."

George said he will not push in 1955 for tax-cutting increases in personal income exemptions of the kind he sought unsuccessfully last year. He said he believes exemptions should be raised, but not until greater progress has been made toward balancing the budget.

Predicting a prosperous year at home, George said he believes the "prospect of peace is certainly somewhat clearer and better than in the past."

GOP Pledges

Dewey's 12-year administration and at carrying out campaign pledges made by Sen. Irving M. Ives.

Harriman defeated Ives for governor. Nevertheless, the GOP leaders maintained theirs still was the majority party, since it took both Liberal and Democratic party votes to elect Harriman.

"Other major issues," they said, will be considered and "may be the subject of future statements."

Heck and Mahoney renewed their pledge to cooperate with Harriman "in all reasonable proposals" that the legislators deem in the best interests of all the people of the state. They continued:

"We invite the governor to cooperate with the majority in both branches of the state legislature in putting into effect the legislative program which we shall enact."

The GOP leaders said they would welcome "a frank and free debate on the issues of state government" and promised to be "frank, fair and friendly" in matters requiring agreement between Harriman and the legislature.

They added that they would report regularly to the people during and after the legislative session, which opens tomorrow.

Schilling Would Seek Better Rail Service Now

It has been suggested by one representative of a local business firm that the Chamber of Commerce investigate possibility of improved railroad service at Rhinecliff this far in advance of the opening of the bridge connecting the east and west shores of the Hudson river.

Noting that many months are consumed in rearranging time tables and pointing out that railroad officials should be interested in increasing revenues, Francis J. Schilling, sales director of F. J. Schilling Sales Company, Inc., wrote the chamber as follows:

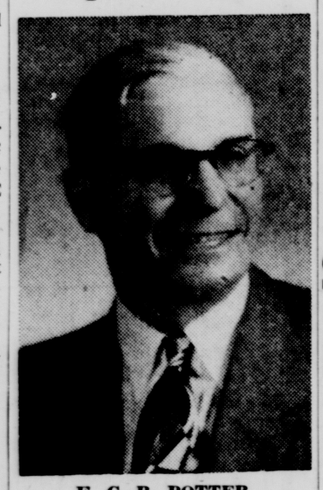
"While the Rhinecliff bridge is a year or so from completion, would this not be an appropriate time to begin investigating the possibility of improved railroad service at Rhinecliff.

"As you are well aware, a large number of people use the New York Central Railroad at Poughkeepsie because of the better service both north and south from that point.

"As changes in time tables of a major nature takes many months of procedure with the railroad officials, PSC, ICC and others, may we suggest your giving this thought your early attention.

"The railroad officials should be interested as it will give them increased revenue, especially so in view of the entire lack of revenue to New York city from Kingston, and the area."

Potter Is Given Telephone Post



F. C. R. POTTER

F. C. R. Potter, manager at Poughkeepsie for the New York Telephone Company since September 1953, formerly of Port Ewen, has been promoted to the position of division commercial engineer for the company's northern division with headquarters in Utica.

Potter joined the telephone company in August 1913 as plant clerk in Kingston. During the next few years he held jobs of increasing responsibility, and in 1925 was named manager at Kingston.

He went to Albany as commercial agent on the division manager's staff in 1927. When a department was organized two years later as liaison between independent telephone companies and the New York Telephone Co., Mr. Potter joined that department.

AS DIVISION commercial agent he was transferred to Syracuse in 1931. In 1939 he was named manager at Corning, where he remained until his appointment as commercial supervisor of field operations for the Kingston telephone district in May 1953.

Nicolli Under Liquor Influence, Toxicologist Says

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Bronx authorities received information yesterday that James Nicolli, 22-year-old sailor killed by an off-duty policeman in an altercation over a traffic incident, had had the equivalent of six ounces of whiskey and that he was shot at a distance of about three inches.

The Bronx medical examiner's office received a report from city toxicologist Dr. Alexander O. Gettler.

The report said an examination showed the alcoholic content of Nicolli's brain to be the equivalent of six one-ounce shots of whiskey, and this would have given the sailor "disturbed equilibrium, decreased inhibition, delayed reflex response, loss of sense of care, loss of clearness of intellect and loss of control of himself."

IN ADDITION, the Police Department's Ballistics Bureau said an investigation of gunpowder burns on the sailor's clothing indicated he was about three inches away from the gun when he was shot.

Nicolli, of 820 E. 173rd St., the Bronx, was shot and killed bp Patrolman Sidney Eisenberg, 28, of Traffic C, who was off duty at the time of the incident shortly after 2 a. m. Dec. 26 at Claremont Parkway and Park Ave., the Bronx.

Eisenberg and his wife, Marilyn, of 78 W. 10th St., the Bronx, were driving home when they saw a vehicle being driven by the sailor zib-zagging west on Claremont Parkway, according to the patrolman. In the car with Nicolli was its owner, Eugene Geraci, 22, of 1663 Washington Ave., the Bronx.

Eisenberg said he cut off the Nicolli car, intending to warn the driver about his dangerous behavior. During a resulting altercation, Nicolli was shot.

Versions of the incident as related by Eisenberg and Geraci differed, and a Bronx grand jury began looking into the incident.

Supervisor . . .

Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Ulster county chairman of the Republican party, as a commissioner of election to succeed himself and the name of Joseph Epstein was presented by Thomas J. Plunket, chairman of the Democratic party as the Democratic commissioner of elections. Both were later re-elected.

Supervisor James Martin of the twelfth ward offered a resolution which would permit inspection of Welfare rolls by persons with a "bona fide" reason for such inspection to have access to the rolls upon written application. This resolution brought forth considerable comment and controversy.

Under the Martin resolution, which was passed by a vote of 21 to 9, with Democratic members voting in opposition, the rolls may be inspected as provided by an amendment to the Social Welfare Law in 1953 only by persons with a bona fide reason for such inspection. Application must be made in writing to the commissioner with the applicant stating his or her name and the reason for such inspection. The request may be granted or denied. If denied the applicant may appeal to the Welfare Committee of the Board of Supervisors.

Supervisor John Gaffney of Lloyd, who is also Welfare officer of his town, opposed the resolution saying the majority party evidently did not have full confidence in the Welfare Department. He said he did not feel the rolls should be opened for inspection, that there was ample investigation before any person received benefits and felt "the benefits derived from opening the rolls would be offset by the damage done." He said it would be unfair to make names public and "brand" unfortunate citizens as welfare cases when their plight was due to some misfortune not of their own making. He suggested that the supervisor of the town might get such necessary information in regard to a case if needed without making public the welfare rolls.

Supervisor Cook, speaking in favor of the resolution took exception to Gaffney's remarks and said the rolls in most of the counties of the state were open and that in Dutchess county there had been no adverse results. Cook said there was no disgrace in being on the welfare roll where a person had met with some unfortunate circumstance, this he agreed applied especially to children.

Gaffney said to open the rolls would cause the information to become too widely circulated. Some counties he said perhaps needed such inspection where there may have been some scandal but he said he had faith in the local welfare office and he did not believe it was necessary to open the rolls.

Supervisors McHugh, Eckert and Martin also spoke to the motion and Martin, as sponsor of the resolution, said his purpose was to keep "chiselers" off the roll by letting them know the roll was open for inspection. He said Ulster county was one of the last counties in the state to take this step, and he added it was unlawful for a supervisor to divulge any information as to welfare cases.

The vote was then taken and the resolution to open the rolls approved.

The board adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

Warren House Sold to Two

The former Charles Warren residence property located at 286 Clinton avenue, head of John street, has been acquired by Arthur B. Ewig, Kingston attorney and a member of the law firm of Cashin and Ewig, and Alfred D. Ronder, certified public accountant, and a member of the firm of Ronder and Ronder.

For many years the three-story brick property was occupied as a residence by Charles Warren and family prior to their moving south. Presently the premises contains apartments. Adjoining to the north is a vacant lot and at the rear of the premises is a large parking area.

Messrs. Ewig and Ronder acquired the property as an investment with no immediate plans for changes. The property was acquired from Suzanne DeGroff Hyde, who had owned the property for 15 years. She was represented by Attorney N. Jansen Fowler and the purchasers were represented by Arthur B. Ewig of Cashin and Ewig. Sale of the premises was consummated through the agency of Nathaniel B. Gross, real estate broker of 2 John street.

up her testimony. She did not indicate there ever had been an attempt on her life.

Yesterday's morning and afternoon subcommittee sessions brought contempt of Congress threats against five persons, one of them a Pittsburgh steel worker who swore he was not a Communist after 1:30 p. m., then refused to say if he had been one at 1 p. m. or previously.

McCarthy said he would ask the subcommittee to cite the witness, Harold K. Briney, on grounds Briney was taking "frivolous' refuge in the Fifth Amendment. Briney had pleaded that to answer differently "may tend to incriminate me."

McCarthy called the government Operations Committee, the subcommittee's parent, to meet tomorrow to act on the contempt charges against Briney and others. A vote for contempt would ask the Senate to refer the cases to the Justice Department for prosecution.

Miss Beynon and Frank Nestler, of Jeanette, Pa., together named eight Pittburgh area employes of the Westinghouse Electric Co., as persons they had known to be Communists. Nestler said he is a former Communist.

Three of those named did not answer subpoenas, and McCarthy said he would ask that they also be cited for contempt.

Miss Beynon and Nestler named them as Evelyn O. Darin, Monroeville, Pa.; Alfred Oyler, Pittsburgh, and Armino H. Sardoch or Sardock, Pittsburgh.

These three and two others named at the hearing—William L. Heiston, Jr. and Joseph Slater — were suspended by Westinghouse late last night. The firm spelled the woman's last name as "Daren" and used the "Sardoch" version.

Quinlan said Yankouski, although supposed to have been at work that night, had stayed home.

The deputy said Yankouski accused his wife of having received visits from Creighton on other occasions, and the quarrel over the matter continued until the time of the shooting.

County Judge John R. Schwartz denied the motion for dismissal, ruling there was cause for the case to go to the grand jury.

Later Mrs. Kenneth Dickinson, a sister of Yankouski, went up to Mrs. Yankouski and embraced her, while another of the dead man's sisters, Mrs. Alice Wood, shook hands with her.

Goldwater . . .

SEN. BRIDGES (N.H.), who like Knowland supported McCarthy, is scheduled to become chairman of the party Policy Committee. Sen. Millikin of Colorado is expected to continue as chairman of the conference, with Sen. Young of North Dakota as its secretary. Millikin and Young also opposed censure, although Millikin voted against McCarthy on one of the preliminary votes.

Senate Democrats (meeting at 3 p. m.) are expected to endorse Sen. George of Georgia as president pro tempore of the Senate, replacing Bridges.

There has been no open opposition to the reelection of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas as a Democratic leader and Sen. Clements of Kentucky as assistant leader.

IN HOUSE CAUCUSES, Democrats are expected to name five new members to the powerful Ways and Means Committee —Harrison of Virginia, Ikard of Texas, Herlong of Florida, McCarthy of Minnesota and Karsten of Missouri.

Rep. Rayburn of Texas is scheduled to become speaker and Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts the majority leader.

Republicans will make retiring Speaker Martin their majority leader.

Radford Begins Tokyo Conference

Tokyo, Jan. 4 (AP)—The chairman of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff began talks with Japanese defense chiefs today almost simultaneously with a top level prediction that Japan's share of defense costs probably would be reduced.

Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama stated in an interview he expects his country's share of the defense burden to be cut.

"I can see no reason why the United States should not agree to this," he said. "Lightening our burden will help greatly to improve our economy and that is what the United States also desires."

THE DEFENSE COST problem is one of the top issues between the two countries.

U. S. Adm. Arthur W. Radford said he is prepared to listen to Japan's defense problems, but could not himself take any action.

He conferred with Seiichi Omura, chief of the defense board, and Gen. Keizo Hayashi, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Japanese sources have reported Omura and Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu, whom Radford will see tomorrow, would ask that Japan's share of the joint defense cost be reduced 45 million dollars below the current 162 million.

Japan plans to boost its own independent defense spending for the coming fiscal year from 220 million dollars to 265 million, government sources said.

Radford's two-day visit concludes a far eastern tour that included southeast Asia, Formosa and South Korea.

Schilling Would Seek Better Rail Service Now

It has been suggested by one representative of a local business firm that the Chamber of Commerce investigate possibility of improved railroad service at Rhinecliff this far in advance of the opening of the bridge connecting the east and west shores of the Hudson river.

Noting that many months are consumed in rearranging time tables and pointing out that railroad officials should be interested in increasing revenues, Francis J. Schilling, sales director of F. J. Schilling Sales Company, Inc., wrote the chamber as follows:

"While the Rhinecliff bridge is a year or so from completion, would this not be an appropriate time to begin investigating the possibility of improved railroad service at Rhinecliff.

"As you are well aware, a large number of people use the New York Central Railroad at Poughkeepsie because of the better service both north and south from that point.

"As changes in time tables of a major nature takes many months of procedure with the railroad officials, PSC, ICC and others, may we suggest your giving this thought your early attention.

"The railroad officials should be interested as it will give them increased revenue, especially so in view of the entire lack of revenue to New York city from Kingston, and the area."
